Veteran politician sweeps past Rockefeller, Reagan

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon, master of the political comeback swept to his second Republican presidential nomination Wednesday night.

Nixon, 55, who lost the White House to John F. Kennedy eight years ago, became the party's 29th presidential nominee with a first ballot surge at the Republican National Convention.

His rivals, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, trailed far behind as the rhythmic rollcall of states made the party's decision.

And so Nixon, who once wrote a book about the six crises of his political life, surmounted the seventh.

It climaxed a studied, meticulously organized—but nonetheless dramatic—return to the Republican pinnacle by a man who six years ago uttered his own bitter political obituary.

That was in Los Angeles, the morning after Nixon lost his bid to become governor of California. Haggard, exhausted, Nixon faced a news conference and proclaimed:

"You won't have Nixon to kick around any longer because, gentlemen, this is my last press conference."

He left the native state from which he had been elected to the House, then to the Senate, leaving Congress to become Dwight D. Eisenhower's vice president, moved to New York and became a Wall Street lawyer.

But politics remained his real profession. And in the aftermath of the Republicans' devastating 1964 defeat, party professionals began talking of Nixon as a contender again for presidential nomination.

And Nixon was soon on the road, campaigning for GOP candidates, addressing fund raising functions, building a bulging stock of political favors due.

The off-year elections of 1966 produced a Republican comeback and Nixon, an ardent campaigner for the party's nominees, shared in the triumph.

That began in earnest, but under cover, the campaign he climaxed in Miami Beach.

"This is not my last press conference," he said on Feb. 1, formally announcing the candidacy he carried through seven presidential primaries.

He came to Miami Beach only Monday, already in command of the convention, and recalled the 1960 race he lost to Kennedy by the slimmest of margins.

"We see history repeating itself," he said. "But there's one big difference. This time we're going to win."

While Rockefeller and Reagan waged hectic final rounds of campaigning Wednesday, Nixon called signals from the seclusion of his penthouse command post, overlooking the Atlantic.

Even as the odds against him became overwhelming, Rockefeller struggled on, vouching at Nixon the favorite theme of his rivals: the charge that he is a loser who cannot defeat the Democrats in the Nov. 5 election.

Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland offered the convention the name of the man who had the votes, after long hours of speechmaking and demonstrations for his rivals and for favorite son candidates.

There were more to come before the convention finally settled into the business of calling the roll of states to count the votes.

An Associated Press tabulation of first ballot commitments showed Nixon had more than the 667 he needed for first ballot victory.

His rivals, Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California, trailed far behind.

Agnew described the former vice president this way:

"A man firm in upholding the law, and determined in the pursuit of justice. A man who can negotiate peace without sacrificing life, land or liberty. A man who had the courage to rise up from the depths of defeat six years ago, and to make the greatest political comeback in American history."

This was a reference to Nixon's 1962 defeat in a race for the governorship of California.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, said by one top Republican to be Nixon's likely choice as a running mate, said he had heard nothing about it.

Nominates New York governor

Shafer calls Rocky man of our times

Record Convention Bureau
MIAMI BEACH — Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer nominated Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the Presidency of the United States Wednesday night, calling him "the man for our time," and comparing him to Abraham Lincoln.

"This is a man who is sure to bring victory to our party in November," Shafer shouted above the din of convention hoopla.

In calling for the Rockefeller nomination by the 1968 Republican convention, Shafer said the nation is in search of a "great new leadership."

"We are a people, in need of a new Lincoln—an uncommon man with the intelligence to face realistically his problems and the courage to rise above petty political criticism to create a new national conscience that he then make the conscience of his party—our party."

Calling upon the convention to "serve and perhaps save the nation," Shafer said Rockefeller's leadership in solving critical problems had been the "most far-sighted of any chief executive in the nation."

"Rockefeller programs have become models for other states and the Federal Government," the Pennsylvania Governor told the delegates.

In an obvious reference to the one-time slogan of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Shafer said that Rockefeller did not offer America "a politics of joy, and over-optimism" that unrealistically said all was well with America.

"He offers us a politics of realism that tells it as it is to all Americans."

Explaining the politics of realism offered by Rockefeller, Shafer said: "It says we must have someone who can build bridges across the deep and fragmented divisions that separate black from white, young from old, poor from rich—someone who is sincerely determined to help bring every citizen into the mainstream of life."

"It says we must have someone who is not afraid of change, who will take us confidently down new and untried paths to a new America and a new world."

The politics of realism, Shafer went on, demands a person who can bring new respect for the American way of life around the world "without pretending or acting like we are supermen."

"Such a man and leader is Nelson Rockefeller," Shafer said.

The Pennsylvania Governor, who was interrupted by cheering Rockefeller supporters and a chant of "we want Rocky," said Rockefeller had shown he was "in tune with all America," not just part of it.

"And because he is in tune," Shafer continued, "the people—young and old, rich and poor, white and black, have responded to him. He has never lost an election."

Reminding delegates that Eisenhower had been the only Republican to be elected in the past four decades, Shafer told the convention.

"The American people, not just fellow Republicans, are looking to our party for the great leadership we gave them through men like Lincoln and Eisenhower."

"We should nominate Nelson Rockefeller because he is the Republican who can win. He is the man for our time."

Rockefeller finishes up with tough blast at Nixon

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Nelson A. Rockefeller took a harsher line toward Richard M. Nixon in a down-to-the-wire drive Wednesday to wrest the GOP presidential nomination from the former vice president.

The New York Governor, a late starter in the race, stressed Nixon election defeats and pictured him as entangled in commitments to Southern delegates to the Republican National Convention.

And in a late afternoon news conference, Rockefeller declared "a massive psychological blitz by the Nixon forces has been stopped."

He said the Nixon forces had resorted to arm-twisting and other pressure tactics of a frightening nature but that the drive to put Nixon over the top had reached its peak last night.

In his final push before the balloting, Rockefeller hopped about to the big Ohio, New Jersey and Pennsylvania delegations.

"Mr. Nixon has not won an election by himself in 18 years," Rockefeller said in urging delegates not to muffle the chance to bring the Republicans back into control of the nations affairs.

"To pick a man who can't win would be a tragedy for the country," the governor said.

Rockefeller said also that Nixon has been telling Southern delegates that "he will not propose legislation they don't agree to or select a vice presidential running mate they don't approve."

"I don't think that's right," said Rockefeller. "We are not going to win nationally with a candidate that is beholden to the South. It is not the way to unite the country."

For good measure, Rockefeller threw in the assertion that Nixon "hasn't had one day of administrative or executive experience in his life."

Nine trapped in coal mine

GREENVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Nine men were reported trapped Wednesday following an explosion in a coal mine south of this small community in western Kentucky.

The Muhlenberg County Sheriff's Department also reported that at least six coal miners were being treated at a hospital here for injuries suffered in the accident at the River Queen mine.

A shift foreman said rescue workers were being hampered by dense smoke, gaseous fumes and high temperatures in the mine.

Violence erupts during Negro rally

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Angered by the appearance of police at a black rally, groups of young Negroes went on a rampage of bottle and rock throwing, looting and burning Wednesday night in a Negro business area.

Miami Police Lt. Jay Golden said "some shots are being fired indiscriminately, mainly at windows, but no one has been injured. There has been no police fire."

The trouble broke out in an area of Miami, some 10 miles across Biscayne Bay from Miami Beach where the Republican National Convention was in session.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, in the audience at the convention, heard of the trouble and broadcast an appeal to "all my brothers and sisters not to turn to violence."

Florida Gov. Claude Kirk, also at the convention, went immediately to Miami and ordered 500 National Guardsmen to a standby basis.

A leader of the black rally said Negroes became incensed when police began massing for no apparent reason at the site of the rally in Northwest Miami.

"We were trying to give our people some of their black culture," said Bob Johnson, a youth who said he was a non-violent Black Nationalist.

"The people we are trying to reach, they can't sit down in peaceful assembly without being harassed," he said. "If they don't stop treating our people like dogs and animals, they're going to act like dogs and animals after nightfall."

The trouble was the first major racial violence to occur in Miami and came about eight months after Police Chief Walter Headley announced a "get tough" policy on crime that included patrols on which officers were armed with shotguns and dogs.

Three people were hit by a barrage of rocks and concrete chunks. A Miami Herald photographer was "severely beaten," according to police.

Police said the rock-throwing began shortly after two dozen police withdrew from the rally place.

However, police said they dispatched 200 riot-equipped men.

State delegation split on first ballot

By DAVID B. OTTAWAY
Record Convention Bureau
MIAMI BEACH — In the background of the vote cast by the 64-man Pennsylvania delegation last night was a five-hour caucus held to determine convention strategy and take a poll of delegates.

That poll showed 40 delegates voting for New York governor Nelson Rockefeller and 22 for Richard Nixon. There was one vote for California governor Ronald Reagan and one abstention. The delegate who abstained was C. V. Afflerback of Levittown.

Not surprisingly, the figures for both Rockefeller and Nixon were lower than those predicted by supporters of the two candidates.

The Nixon forces had talked of a minimum of 26, while Rockefeller supporters had predicted as many as 50.

However, Nixon forces thought they would pick up additional votes after the first ballot. The reason for this was that some delegates are concerned about their political future, and they have to live with Governor Raymond Shafer, a strong backer of Rockefeller, after the convention is over.

Thus, there were some willing to vote for Rockefeller on the first ballot and then switch on the second one.

John D. Wood, one of the 15th District delegates, came out of the caucus more opposed to Nixon than before. He had vowed to cast a protest vote rather than support Nixon.

Wood said after the caucus that the chief Nixon spokesman in the group, Rep. James Fulton of Allegheny County, had spoken and made it clear on the Vietnam issue that Nixon was determined to win.

Wood, who is one of two "peace candidates" in the delegation, said, "My position is diametrically opposed to this."

Wood also said that Clifton White, Reagan's campaign director, told the caucus that his candidate would give the North Vietnamese an ultimatum and then apply "the full force of the United States might."

Wood predicted that the Fulton statement of Nixon's attitude toward the war would drive a number of Pennsylvania delegates to remain with Rockefeller and not switch to Nixon.

Wood said that the theme of the caucus had been unity and that there had not been much friction between Rockefeller and Nixon supporters.

Shafer found himself with a badly divided delegation on his hands.

According to one of them, their fair was that if Rockefeller became the Republican Party candidate, the clinic groups in the Pittsburgh area would vote for third party candidate George Wallace.

Wallace is apparently a real threat to the Republican Party in the western part of the state.

On the other hand, the Rockefeller forces, centered in Philadelphia where the Negro vote is a major factor, were afraid that if Nixon was nominated the black vote would go to the Democrats and possibly sweep the Republicans out of office at the state and local levels.

The East-West division in the Pennsylvania delegation has been a major factor here at the convention.

Some GOPs standing out looking in

Record Convention Bureau
MIAMI BEACH — "Got any tickets?"

This is the most frequently asked question of any Convention of any party in any election year. And it was asked with deepening insistence as a Wednesday nominating session approached.

By the time Wednesday rolled around and delegates and guests began entering the Convention Hall, the bearer of an admission ticket—one of 18,000 to get into the Hall—began to feel like a VIP.

And so it was Wednesday of 1968 in Miami Beach when the happy Republican ticket-holders began entering the Hall a good hour and a half before the 5 p.m. opening hour.

Now ancient history was the agonized complaint of an hour before by an Arkansas Delegate as he stood in his hotel lobby, his hand on the elbow of his state Chairman.

"By God, I'm an elected official. I go out and campaign. And now I can't even get a ticket for my brother."

Every delegation had the same problem: Too many friends and relatives for the number of tickets allotted.

U.S. launches rocket attack

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. battalion clashed with an enemy force Wednesday in the "rocket belt" 12 miles south of Saigon, said to be a staging area for rocket and mortar attacks against the capital.

Military spokesmen said sketchy reports indicated at least 50 enemy were killed. Infantrymen of the 9th Division, supported by helicopter gunships, were still engaged in heavy fighting at nightfall.

Sen. Long defeated in primary

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Missouri's Democrats dumped incumbent Sen. Edward V. Long in Tuesday's primary and he promptly called his defeat "a great victory for the wetwipers, snappers and federal bureaucrats who violate the constitutional rights of our citizens."

Long had been under fire by Life magazine articles suggesting he misused his office to help Teamsters Union president James R. Hoffa and to make work for the Steamfitters' Union in St. Louis.

He called the articles a smear and an attempt to influence the primary.

As the returns neared completion, Long wired congratulations Wednesday to U.S. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, who snatched the Democratic senatorial nomination from him.

In Missouri's 1st Congressional District, William Clay won the Democratic nomination and Curtis Crawford the Republican nomination, guaranteeing that Missouri would send its first Negro to Congress this year.

And the Democrats, approving a familiar name, nominated James W. Symington to Congress in the 2nd District. Symington, who resigned as U.S. chief of protocol to seek the nomination, is a son of Missouri's senior senator, Stuart Symington.

He will run against another familiar name — Republican Hugh Scott, namesake of Pennsylvania's Republican senator.

Ike suffered major attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was reported making some progress Wednesday, a day after suffering what doctors called another major heart attack.

The outlook was still "guarded," Army doctors explained that the word meant that "in this early period after any heart attack, the outcome is unpredictable."

In his suite at Walter Reed Army Hospital, Eisenhower was being given oxygen continuously.

Fraud charged to firm

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Missouri firm that received a $13.9 million contract for rocket launchers only two weeks ago was charged Wednesday with creating phantom suppliers and receiving kickbacks on previous contracts of more than $47 million.

The indictment charges that more than $4 million was funneled to Swiss banks by the defendants "well knowing that their interest in accounts in Swiss banks could and would be disguised and concealed" by co-conspirators.

A Navy information officer said the indictments will have no effect on the new contract awarded by the Naval Air Systems Command on July 23 to Techfab Division of Alisco Inc. of St. Louis.

The Associated Press at the time of the award disclosed that the firm's previous contracts were involved in a federal grand jury investigation.

Chromcraft Corp., which merged with Alisco in 1966, was named a defendant along with the successor firm. Individuals named as defendants were Andrew L. Stone, principal stockholder, chief executive officer and a director of Chromcraft; Francis N. Rosenbaum, the firm's counsel in Washington and a director; Evelyn R. Price, executive secretary to Stone; and Robert B. Bregman, owner of Bregman Electronics Inc., of New York City.

Chromcraft, and later the Techfab Division of Alisco, have since 1962 been the sole supplier of 2.75 inch rocket launchers to the Navy. The launchers are used for folding fin aircraft rockets—missiles fired either air-to-air or air-to-ground.

The indictment says the defendants set up two firms—Scientific Electronics Ltd. and Bregman Electronics Inc.—each to be "a dummy corporation subject to the direction, control and use by the defendants as a conduit for the diversion of monies fraudulently obtained."

These dummy corporations, the indictment says, prepared purchase orders and invoices for items "that Chromcraft would not and did not purchase nor acquire," but for which the firm charged the government.

The two dummy firms sent their money to Switzerland and Lichtenstein, the indictment says, and the funds eventually landed in the hands of Hans Senn of the Bank Fur Handel and Effekten and Walter A. Lips at the Union Bank of Switzerland. Senn and Lips and Senn's bank were listed as co-conspirators but not as defendants.

The amounts transmitted to Switzerland were listed as $2,227,592.13 and $1,180,692.10.

The indictments cover the years 1963, 1964, 1965 and January to May 1966.

ly. He was being fed a low-salt, liquid diet by mouth.

Eisenhower, 77, had been recovering from a major heart attack of June 15 when he was stricken again early Tuesday with his sixth attack since 1955 and the third this year.

Asked how the new attack compared with the seizure of June 15, which had been termed a major one, the doctors said: "Equal severity."

The doctors have referred to the latest attack as a myocardial infarction, characterized by damage to the heart muscle.

They said Tuesday that anyone who has "sustained a recent infarction is considered to be seriously ill."

Soon after the June 15 heart attack, Eisenhower's doctors said that "the early period following any heart attack is the most critical." They further defined the "critical period" as generally extending through the first week immediately following such an attack.

The doctors gave a terse "negative" as their reply to this question:

"Has a heart transplant operation ever been considered in General Eisenhower's case either in his present episode or anytime in the past? If not why not?"

Reds seek to retain solidarity

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin leadership apparently wants to show the Russians it handled the confrontation with Czechoslovakia successfully and is assured of continued loyalty to Soviet-style communism.

That seems to be the purpose of a communique, front-paged in the Moscow press Wednesday, which proclaimed satisfaction that the six-nation meeting in Bratislava Saturday produced a pledge of "irreconcilable struggle against bourgeois ideology and against all anti-socialist forces."

This document, issued by the Soviet Communist party Politburo, ignored concessions to the reformist leadership of Czechoslovakia. It did not mention the acknowledgment that each Communist party has the right to "consider national characteristics and conditions" in running its own country.

The communique was in line with earlier press comment in Moscow on the showdown at Bratislava.

This appears to have a double purpose: —To counter possible charges that the Kremlin bungled by playing up the crisis with Czechoslovakia, then backing down and accepting the liberalization movement.

—To remind Prague the Soviet Union takes a dim view of the freedom of speech and press which last month produced such things as attacks on the Warsaw Pact and accusations of Kremlin interference in Czechoslovak politics.

The Presidium of the Czechoslovak Communist party obviously got the message. It appealed to Czechoslovak newsmen in a communique issued in Prague Wednesday to show restraint in commenting on national and international affairs, "especially in the field of foreign policy."

Government reaches compromise

U.S. Steel pares price hikes

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A price battle between the White House and the steel industry appeared ended Wednesday with both the government and companies compromising on modest price increases.

U.S. Steel, the nation's biggest producer and usually the pace-setter, announced it was boosting prices on steels used in making such major products as auto bodies, refrigerators, stoves, machinery and buildings.

But the hikes were not as high as the nearly 5 per cent across-the-board increases announced a week ago by the No. 2 producer, Bethlehem, and Bethlehem immediately fell in line, chopping its boost to 2.4 per cent.

It seems almost a certainty that the rest of the industry would follow suit. Two other big firms, Inland and Armco, announced within hours that they would remain competitive, meaning that their prices would be brought in line with U.S. Steel's. All the price hikes are effective Aug. 16.

If all the companies follow the same pattern, it would mean that the latest round of price increases would apply to about 60 per cent of the industry's shipments.

At the Texas White House, President Johnson was quoted as saying the moves by U.S. Steel and Bethlehem are a "substantial improvement from the general inflationary trend."

Arthur M. Okun, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said, "It is gratifying that the U.S. Steel action significantly reduced the threat of a large and general inflation in steel prices."

One industry observer described the price adjustments as a compromise. Another commented that the day's developments appeared to mark the end of the latest government-industry hassle over prices.

The confrontation between the White House and the companies was the most dramatic since 1962 when the late President Kennedy angrily forced the industry to roll back a general $8-a-ton price boost.

Since then, the industry has soft-pedaled its price boosts, increasing a product here, another there.

But Bethlehem, Republic, Armco and Inland broke this practice last week by announcing virtual across-the-board price hikes after the industry had reached a billion dollar-plus labor settlement with the United Steelworkers union.

Other firms, including U.S. Steel, had remained selective. U.S. Steel boosted prices on tinplate products used for beer and soft drink cans and some structural steel.

U.S. to release Red sailors; bargains for airmen's return

PARIS (AP) — W. Averell Harriman, U.S. peace negotiator, announced Wednesday the forthcoming release of 14 North Vietnamese sailors held by the United States. He asked freedom for more U.S. airmen held in North Vietnam.

Freeing the sailors was a gesture of goodwill like the recent North Vietnamese release of three American pilots, he said after meeting at the peace table with Hanoi's delegates.

"I asked for a list of those being held as an act of humanity," Harriman told newsmen.

He appealed especially for the names of those injured, and of those held for a long time.

The chief North Vietnamese delegate at the session, Ambassador Ha Van Lau, said his government takes a humane attitude toward the men it holds.

The North Vietnamese claim to have captured about 1,000 American airmen. They have released six this year.

A U.S. spokesman said the 14 sailors, captured in 1966 when torpedo boats attacked U.S. vessels, are the last North Vietnamese in American hands and they will be freed soon.

Lau said he would consult his government about how to handle the release. Most North Vietnamese captured by U.S. forces have been turned over to the South Vietnamese.

Harriman had no progress to report from the 16th session of the talks, which are now almost three months old. Another meeting will be held next Wednesday.

The North Vietnamese insisted, as they have from the start, that the United States must stop bombing them before the talks can go on to other subjects.

Harriman recalled that President Johnson already had limited the bombing.

So far, he said, there had been no response that would justify the risks that a complete bombing halt would bring for U.S. troops.

The North Vietnamese have insisted that it was slander to say that they had troops in the South. But Lau referred to U.S. proposals on limiting North Vietnamese infiltration as an escalation of American terms for stopping the bombs. He did not deny that the North Vietnamese are infiltrating.

Pham Van Dong, his premier, was quoted in the Philippine weekly Graphic as saying: "We do not deny that. We are indeed helping the NLF Viet Cong's National Liberation Front; in every way we can—including the sending of our own troops."

American officials consider such an acknowledgment would be important. They point out that it is hard to discuss the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South until their presence is admitted.

North Vietnamese delegates in Paris declined to say if they considered the quotation authentic.

Goldberg hailed the elevation of Fortas, who replaced Goldberg on the court when he resigned to go to the U.N.

"He has performed with very great distinction and should be confirmed by the Senate when it reconvenes," said Goldberg.

On the crime bill, Goldberg alleged it was adopted during a time of stress and such periods "make bad law."

Goldberg insisted the current growing troubles in America's cities are not caused by court decisions that demand that police protect the constitutional rights of all persons, murderer or not.

"It is imperative that we recognize that if the law is really to come to grips with the problems of racial discrimination and poverty—the two great domestic problems—it must make itself felt not at the end of the policeman's nightstick," said Goldberg.

Ex-justice Goldberg questions crime law

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Former Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg charged Wednesday that the new crime law passed by Congress to overrule some Supreme Court decisions is "both ill-conceived and of dubious constitutionality."

Goldberg, now in private law practice after serving three years as America's ambassador to the United Nations, told some 600 delegates he questions the legality of some sections of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act, which became law in June.

"Those sections seek to overrule decisions relating to rights of accused defendants and to legalizing wiretapping, make bad law," Goldberg said.

He spoke at a breakfast of the American Judicature Society, meeting in conjunction with the 91st annual convention of the American Bar Association which winds up a week-long meeting today.

Goldberg said crime and racial violence can be fought best through laws that attack the causes that create slums and poverty.

At a news conference afterwards he emphasized he doesn't object to all provisions in the law "and those that stress law enforcement, I support."

These opinions, which critics claim has allowed crime and violence to mount unchecked, have been the source of much of the controversy surrounding President Johnson's new appointments to the nation's highest court—Abe Fortas as chief justice, and Homer Thornberry to succeed Fortas as associate justice.

Goldberg hailed the elevation of Fortas, who replaced Goldberg on the court when he resigned to go to the U.N.

"He has performed with very great distinction and should be confirmed by the Senate when it reconvenes," said Goldberg.

On the crime bill, Goldberg alleged it was adopted during a time of stress and such periods "make bad law."

Goldberg insisted the current growing troubles in America's cities are not caused by court decisions that demand that police protect the constitutional rights of all persons, murderer or not.

"It is imperative that we recognize that if the law is really to come to grips with the problems of racial discrimination and poverty—the two great domestic problems—it must make itself felt not at the end of the policeman's nightstick," said Goldberg.

Man pushes sales tax fight

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Erwin L. Murray, an articulate opponent of certain inequities he claims exist in the sales tax law, pressed his argument at a hearing in Williamsport Wednesday.

The 48-year-old Murray is in the auto repair business at Emporium and is a county commissioner of Cameron County. He had served two terms in the State House of Representatives as a Democrat from Cameron County when reapportioned out of his seat in 1968.

That same year, he ran third in the three-man race for the Democratic nomination for governor. Murray received 80,803 votes in the Democratic primary.

He was in Williamsport Wednesday to appear before John

C. Gault, district hearing examiner for the State Sales and Use Tax Division.

At issue is Murray's refusal to pay $61 in sales taxes collected in 1967 on labor which Murray says was performed at his garage in Emporium.

Murray insisted again, as he has in the past, that labor should not be subject to the 6 per cent sales tax. He pointed out that it is not collected on the services of barbers, beauticians and other tradespeople.

Wednesday's private hearing was held in Gault's office. The examiner said he would issue a ruling later and submit it to division headquarters in Harrisburg.

Gault's ruling would be appealable to the Board of Finance and Revenue in Harrisburg.

State teachers' association forms political action group

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Creation of a political action committee for the Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA) was announced here Wednesday.

PSEA President Joseph Standa said the newly created Political Action Committee for Education (PACE), would be an independent arm of the association aimed at improving education.

The PSEA is a professional union organization for Pennsylvania school teachers and educators with a claimed membership of 85,000.

Standa addressed 350 of PSEA's local association leaders attending a president's workshop in Chambersburg this week.

"PACE will enable us to analyze the legislative performance of incumbents and promises of first-term candidates," Standa

Joseph Standa, PSEA president explained. "And PACE will announce support of candidates or denounce laggards. PACE will support those who worked to get additional funds for education or who were supportive to other educational programs in the PSEA legislative packages, regardless of political party affiliation."

PACE will be governed by a board of directors consisting of officers of the parent PSEA organization and district representatives.

Those already named from the districts include: Louis Guisto, Windber; Charles Hash, New Oxford; Joseph Kimbock, Bethlehem; John Lowry, Washington; Fred McKillop, Meadville; Don Ruckle, Westmoreland County, representing PSEA's legislative committee; Robert Ulrich, Williamsport, and Robert F. Ward, Mount Lebanon.

Four more members of the board of directors remain to be named, Standa said.

TOBYHANNA — There's a powder room in the soldiers' barracks at Tobyhanna Army Depot. The sign on the door reads "Mary's." It's the personal room of Miss Mary O'Hara, the only female employed in the building.

A petite brunette, 18-year-old Miss O'Hara came to work at the depot shortly after her graduation last June from West Scranton Central Catholic High School. In less than two months, she has become indispensable to the some 40 military men whose lives she invaded.

"Mary's the best civilian we have here," says SFC Richard Matulis, non-commissioned-officer-in-charge of the Plans and Training Office. The Plans and Training Office used to be a relatively uneventful place. Then Miss O'Hara was hired.

Her application read "clerk-typist." But in Miss O'Hara, the soldiers' have found more than a secretary.

"She does all my spelling for me," says Sergeant Matulis.

Miss O'Hara is also good with needle and thread. Whenever there's a button or stripe to be sewn, she's right there.

Handy with a paint brush, too, she recently helped redecorate the barracks supply room.

Her desk has become a "Dear Abby" center for complaints and compliments. And although she is honorary coach of the military softball team, the squad is suffering a losing streak.

"A coach is only as good as her players," explains Capt. Spencer Johnson, the detachment's acting commander. "After all, a girl can't do the impossible."

Miss O'Hara's soldiers don't quite know how they managed before she arrived. And they're not really sure what they'll do when she leaves. However, next fall, Marywood College can boast a female "veteran" in its freshman class.

Miss O'Hara, one of 130 Youth Opportunity Program employees at the Tobyhanna Depot this summer, plans to major in elementary education.

She good-humoredly denies the soldiers' allegations that, in two weeks or so, she will become a United States Army dropout.

$2.5 million suit filed against DeGaeta by All American Realty

DINGMANS FERRY — The All American Realty Co., Inc., which owns Birchwood Lakes in Delaware Township, has filed a $2.5 million law suit against Albert M. DeGaeta of Brooklyn, N. Y., who also owns a summer home in Marcel Lake.

The suit was filed Wednesday morning in the U. S. District Court for the Middle District in Scranton.

Filed by the Milford law firm of Krawitz, Sigal and Kilroe, the suit takes issue with statements made by DeGaeta against the Birchwood Lakes development at a July 30 meeting of the Delaware Township Planning Commission.

Strong letter

DeGaeta, in a strongly worded letter read to the Delaware Township Planning Commission, urged the township to adopt a subdivision regulation.

Reading the five page letter to John Padalino, chairman of the Planning Commission, DeGaeta called the conditions at Birchwood Lake "deplorable" and further argued for action by the township officials.

A controversy has arisen during the past several weeks against possible pollution problems at Birchwood Lakes.

The suit charges that DeGaeta, in his letter read to the Planning Commission, said that a "Mr. Lee Philip Gemmill, Pennsylvania State Health Officer, informed the residents of Birchwood Lakes in the presence of the Township Supervisors that two of their four lakes were polluted and not fit for swimming while the other two lakes were borderline approaching this same point."

Malicious statements

The All American Realty Co., Inc., in its suit, charges that DeGaeta's statements "were malicious, falsely spoken and adversely affected the plaintiff's trade, business, and business reputation."

The suit states that Gemmill did not advise DeGaeta nor the Township Supervisors that two of the four lakes at Birchwood Lakes were polluted.

The suit states that the Department of Health has advised the All American Realty Co., developers of both Birchwood Lakes and Marcel Lake, "that in their opinion that until coliform groups reach 1,000 per 100 millimeters of water, that such water is considered safe for swimming."

Tested lakes

All American Realty had retained General Testing Laboratories, Inc. of Allentown to test all the lakes at Birchwood.

Monroe Co. 4-H Club horse show Saturday

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County 4-H Club members will "round-up" for the Horse and Pony Achievement Show starting on Saturday at 10 a.m. at the West End fair grounds in Gilbert.

John Withrow, county agent for the Cooperative Extension Service sponsoring the event said he expects some 60 members to enter their choice of class from 27 entry classes offered at the show.

There is no entry fee. Withrow said and suggested that members enter those classes that will give them the most experience. Everyone must enter the grooming and showing classes.

Six ribbons

Six ribbons and a trophy will be awarded in each class. All animals will be measured for height before the grooming classes.

A new class, "Walk and Trot," for English riders and "Walk and Jog," for Western riders will be included. This is an equitation class for Novice riders. Withrow said.

A refreshment stand will be operated by the ladies of the Cherry Valley Methodist Church.

Supporting staff members for the show include: James Frailey, Ringmaster; William Walter, announcer; Richard Seidol, ground superintendent; Larry Wolbert and Jane Schoenberger as stewards; Mrs. James Frailey and Mrs. Arthur Jensen, show secretaries and Charles Hendry, as Judge.

Saturday's event is in preparation for the District Show which will be held at the Willowdale Recreation Area in Schuylkill County on Saturday, Aug. 24 starting at 10 a.m. The first two winners in each class will be eligible for the district event.

Convention old 'shell game'

National political conventions each four years take on more and more the appearance of a carnival, where the old "shell game" still draws the hopefuls from miles around.

The eternal question for those playing the "shell game" is under which shell is the pea located?

The current Republican National Convention in Miami Beach had three sports risking their political dollar in the biggest game they ever played.

Former vice president Richard Nixon, Nelson Rockefeller, governor of New York, and Ronald Reagan, governor of California, were the three "sports" risking their future on the game and trying desperately to discover under which shells the peas were lodged.

The peas in this instance were votes and the shells were delegates from the various states and the winner of the game became the Republican nominee for the presidency of the United States.

The winning score of the game was 667 points or 667 delegates.

Miami Beach's version of the "shell game" wasn't a stationary contest. It was played in every room of every hotel at which delegates to the convention were staying.

The three major candidates were hopping from "game to game" like a toad on a hot rock, knowing full well that Wednesday afternoon was the deadline for the 667 needed votes from the delegation of 1,333 individuals.

Nixon, Rockefeller and Reagan were the three busiest men in Miami Beach on Wednesday, as each searched frantically for the necessary favorable delegation support to win nomination.

No stone was left unturned as the delegates and each of their aides sought out support in any corner in which it could be found.

Uncommitted delegates played coy right up to the final minute, as they switched shells and changed the location of peas.

The champion was named at Wednesday's balloting before a packed house at Convention Hall.

Congratulations!

Congratulations are in order this morning for the councilmen of the borough of Mount Pocono.

We offer the congratulations as a result of the ordinance adopted by council prohibiting disorderly conduct.

The new law broadens the Public Nuisance Ordinance that has been on the books for some time and offers added protection for people living year-round in Mount Pocono and those responsible citizens who spend their summers within the borders of the borough.

The new law will take giant strides to protect borough inhabitants from violence and property damage in this day when violence is very fashionable in some circles.

It also offers protection against the habitual consumer of alcoholic beverages who also makes a habit of fighting and bringing about property damage. It offers further protection against irresponsible individuals who may visit Mount Pocono with no thought in mind at all for law and order.

If properly enforced, ordinances of this type bring greater value to the borough itself and to private property located within the borough. It also improves greatly the appearance of any locality directly under the ordinance adopted.

The adoption of this protective ordinance, in our mind, is another fine example of thinking for the future and for the inhabitants under the wing of council.

The real value of the new law will undoubtedly be felt even more strongly in the future than at the present time.

With Gene Brown

Ignorance is one thing that never suffers from over-exposure.

Overheard at Genung's:

"I came here to get something for my wife."
"What are you asking for her?"

Tom had been married about a month when he chanced to run into one of his bachelor buddies. "How's married life, Tom?" asked Sam.

"Simply wonderful! You should try it, Sam," was the enthusiastic reply.

"That good eh?" said the friend.

"It's marvelous! The house is always as neat as a pin; there's always a delicious meal ready when I get home from work; my newspaper is always laid out and folded to the sports page; my easy chair is always in front of the television set; my clothes are always clean and pressed and ready for me to put on; my slightest whim is her command. Of course, we're living with my mother."

A small girl watched a party of anglers putting off in their boat.

"But Mummy," she asked, "do the fishes like all that beer?"

Alternate delegate Burger confident of GOP victory

(Editor's Note—This is the last in a series of four articles on delegates and alternate delegates representing Monroe County and the 15th District at the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach.)

MIAMI BEACH — Theodore R. Burger of Allentown, one of two alternate delegates to the Republican National Convention from the 15th district, of which Monroe County is a member, talks like a man who is convinced: 1968 is the year for a Republican triumph.

The American people, he feels, "want a fresh breath of air" and new Republican leadership.

Never, he said, has he seen so much disenchantment and hope at the same time as this year.

Burger seems to tie a Republican victory at least partially to a "positive stand" by the Republican party on the Vietnam war, which he describes as the "most frustrating war in our history."

Seeks recommendations

He wants the party to make "some very specific recommendations" on how the United States can disengage itself from the Vietnam tangle "with dignity and honor."

"Vietnam must be an important part of the platform. The party must take a strong and lucid position on it. This is no time for any wishy-washy," he remarked.

Burger, 49-year-old co-owner of a public relations and advertising firm (Ritter-Burger, Inc.) in Allentown, is no newcomer to politics, although he has never held an elective position, either.

But he has been a committeeman from South Whitehall, Lehigh County, for 10 years and has acted as public relations consultant to the county party organization over the past 15 years.

Actually, politics runs in the family bloodline. His father served in the state legislature for a number of years and was active a lifetime, along with his mother, in local politics.

Burger has seen another side of politics as well; he served for 10 years as the administrative assistant of Rep. Willard S. Curtin, congressman from Lehigh and Bucks counties from 1956-66.

Before that, he was a newspaperman and worked for the Allentown Call-Chronicle.

Burger has a vision of the Republican Party leading the country out of the Vietnam war, just as it did out of the long, drawn-out Korean conflict under President Eisenhower.

The phased, withdrawal plan of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, he feels, "offers something" although he noted that "some aspects are perhaps idealistic."

"But at least he has a plan," Burger added. He took issue with presidential candidate Richard Nixon for his self-imposed moratorium on the Vietnam war, asserting he had a "duty" to speak out on the issue.

"His silence is becoming more and more tenuous," he remarked.

However, he thinks Nixon will probably speak out on Vietnam after the convention, if he is nominated.

Burger takes no position on the two announced candidates.

He has met with both Nixon and Rockefeller and described the two candidates as both "eminently qualified" to become president.

He believes the convention is shaping up to be an open one and feels this will be a "healthy" thing for the Republican party.

He said he was attending the convention with an "open mind" and would continue listening to various viewpoints right up to the time of the convention.

Burger will be driving with his wife and three children to Miami, arriving there Saturday.

Allen - Goldsmith Report

More cuts in future

John A. Goldsmith

MIAMI BEACH — Republican lawmakers at the GOP Convention here are planning further cuts in President Johnson's foreign aid program which has already been trimmed to an all-time record low.

Indications are that more cuts will be made when Congress goes back to work in September. The $1.9 billion authorized may shrink to as little as $1.5 billion when Congress puts up funds to finance the aid projects.

Before their convention recess, the House and Senate approved a $1.9 billion authorization for foreign aid in the fiscal year which is just beginning. The total was one billion dollars less than President Johnson recommended and the smallest ever for the foreign aid program.

However, a House appropriations subcommittee, headed by Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., a veteran whittler on aid requests, is expected to recommend about $1.5 billion in actual appropriations. That would nearly halve the Johnson aid program.

Informal discussions among GOP leaders here suggest that Passman's recommendations will get heavy Republican support.

Timing of the final Senate vote on the $1.9 billion authorization bill did not help the foreign aid cause. The 46 to 28 Senate vote came last Wednesday — the day President Johnson "froze" $91 million which Congress had voted for school districts across the nation.

The school aid would have helped districts which educate large number of children attracted by military installations and other government activities. The president's "freeze" held aid to those districts to 80 per cent of the outlay voted by Congress.

Some GOP lawmakers are saying here that foreign aid is still too high if the government can only make good on 60 per cent of its school-aid commitments to help children inside the United States. On the same theory the Senate tried unsuccessfully to withhold carry-over foreign aid funds until the school aid funds were released.

Wallace Ghost

George C. Wallace, the third-party candidate who is nobody's Republican, is nevertheless helping to shape GOP campaign plans which are being developed here.

The former Alabama governor is much discussed at private functions in this convention city. Delegates from all parts of the nation are saying that he Wallace campaign is already hurting the two major parties.

As a consequence, Wallace and his third-party threat are influencing both national and congressional GOP campaign strategies.

On the national scene, delegates are convinced that Wallace is tapping a rich vein of paydirt with his demands for a return to law and order. Many delegates are urging that GOP candidates hit harder at the crime-in-the-

The Scott Report

Two sides to shifts

WASHINGTON — Hanoi is engaged in one of the most baffling military backing and filling maneuvers of the Vietnam war.

While infiltrating record numbers of troops down the Ho Chi Minh trail during the past 30 days, the North Vietnamese have conducted a mysterious pull back of main-force units from South Vietnam.

More than 50,000—or at least 50 percent of the North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam—have been shifted across the borders into sanctuary bases in Cambodia, Laos, and North Vietnam during July.

Involved in this apparent temporary withdrawal are elements of seven of 12 North Vietnamese divisions reported by United States military command in Saigon to be operating in South Vietnam at the end of June.

This "positioning of forces"—as the Joint Chiefs of Staff refer to the North Vietnamese pull back—is causing both apprehension and optimism among President Johnson's war advisers.

One group, which includes Vice President Humphrey, wants the president to publicly spotlight the temporary pull back (as he did the communists' increased infiltration) and then use it as a pretext for a dramatic move of his own at the Paris Peace talks.

Their bombshell, drafted inside the State Department, calls for a U. S. announcement of a cessation of all bombing to test Hanoi's intentions in Vietnam and at Paris.

This controversial peace overture by the U. S., according to their line of reasoning, would pump new life into the deadlocked Paris talks and coincide with the Democratic National Convention later this month.

Should the communists then launch massive attacks against South Vietnamese cities, they say, the President could immediately renew the bombing of North Vietnam and even expand it.

Psychological warfare

From a military point of view, the Joint Chiefs of Staff have frankly warned the president that any further outback of the bombing now would only be courting disaster for U.S. forces in Vietnam.

In their White House briefings, the president's military advisers have contended that the across-the-border withdrawal is part of Hanoi's preparations for a new series of massive attacks against Saigon scheduled to begin late in August or early September.

Once these communist divisions are re-equipped and brought up to full strength, they stressed, the units will be moved back into South Vietnam for the massive attacks.

In face of this conflicting advice, President Johnson issued his recent warning that Hanoi was preparing new attacks. Significantly, he did not order additional U.S. military measures to blunt the offensive he said was coming.

"In warning of the communist offensive," one Administration insider explained, "the President was using psychological warfare on both Hanoi and the American people."

"Both are being conditioned to expect the worst," he reported.

Don MacLean

Freddy finds feasibility

WASHINGTON — Whenever the attitude of the liberal establishment baffles me, I always check with my friend, Freddy the Protester, to see if there's something I've overlooked.

Just finding Freddy was no easy task. I checked his haunts, the park across from the White House, the steps of the Capitol, the mall in front of Agriculture, the lobby of the State Department. No sign of him or his friends.

On a hunch, I dropped by the commercial art studio where the liberals get their signs painted. I thought perhaps they were missing from the ramparts of protest simply because they were getting new signs made.

However, the chief artist (who, by the way, created that best-selling sign, "Death to Opponents of Non-Violence!") said he suspected that most of his customers were at home, "sitting out the current crisis."

I tried Freddy's house and when he opened the door, I launched a barrage of questions, "How come you people aren't picketing the Russian Embassy? Why aren't you condemning the Reds for trying to keep Czechoslovakia from determining its own future?"

Eyes become wary

Freddy's eyes became wary. "What's this about Czechoslovakia?" he said. "I try to read the papers, but what with protesting the United States' naked aggression in Vietnam, and so forth, it's difficult to keep up with everything."

I was flabbergasted. "Listen, wise guy," I said, "you know very well that the Czechs are trying to throw off Russia's influence and choose their own form of government. You demonstrators are always saying the U.S. should get out of Vietnam and let the Vietnamese decide their own future."

"Why is it wrong for us to influence the affairs of South Vietnam and not wrong for Russia to intervene in the affairs of Czechoslovakia? If you're going to protest what the U. S. is doing in Asia, you should protest what Russia is doing in Europe!"

Asking for rescue

Dear Ann Landers: Please, please lend a helping hand to the hairdressers of America.

I wonder how a woman who washes, irons and cleans all day would like to go to the home of a friend and do the friend's housework at night?

My last three "dinner" invitations turned out to be requests for free beauty work. My cousin wanted a permanent, my aunt asked me to give her a bleach job and a neighbor needed a haircut, shampoo and set and "couldn't get downtown."

Tonight a woman who used to live near us when I was a child dropped over to my home. (I hadn't seen her in a year.) She brought her hair clips, setting lotion and a hairnet-said I owed her a favor because once she cooked dinner for us kids when Mom was in the hospital.

I couldn't refuse her, although I had been on my feet since 8 a.m. and my own hair needed shampooing but I was too tired to do it. Please print this letter, Ann. We abused hairdressers need someone to speak for us. Will you?

VARICOSE VICKIE
Dear Vic: I'd be happy to but in the final analysis you must speak for yourself.

Each of you must put down his (or her) swollen foot and say to friends (?) and relatives who would take advantage of your tender-heartedness, "Sorry, no. I work hard all day and I can't work at night, too, or I'll collapse."

Dear Ann Landers: I started to write to this boy in the service. He saw my picture in a high school paper. Jerry was a real brain and I knew it from his first letter. I had to sit with a dictionary in my lap. I was determined to look smart, too, so I got the smartest girl in school to compose "my" letters to him.

Jerry is coming home next month. The minute I open my mouth he'll know I didn't write those letters.

GHOSTED
Dear Ghosted: Confess right off and pray that Jerry has a sense of humor.

Helen A. Kasprzak bride of local man

SCRANTON — Raymond W. Uhl II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Uhl Sr. of Franklin Hill Road, East Stroudsburg, took as his bride Miss Helen Antoinette Kasprzak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Kasprzak of 1235 Watson St., Scranton, on Aug. 3 at noon.

They were married in St. Ann's Monastery Church, Scranton, by Rev. Godfrey Kasper C.P. St. Mary's Monastery Church, Dunkirk, N.Y., and Rev. Giles Ahrens, C.P., St. Ann's Monastery Church, Scranton.

The altar was decorated with ferns and bouquets of gladioli, shasta daisies and baby's breath. The pews were marked with bows and streamers of variegated ivy.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of silk faced satin and re-embroidered Alencon lace traced in pearls, seed pearls and aurora crystals. It had long tapering lace sleeves and a scoop neckline bordered by three-dimensional lace appliques. The side panels and sweeping train were of beaded Alencon outlined in lace scallops. She wore a forward headpiece of Alencon lace, pearls and aurora crystals holding her eight-tiered veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade arrangement of phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis, lilies of the valley and variegated ivy with a white orchid center.

Miss Mary Kay Donahue of Scranton was maid of honor. She wore a gown of white romance crepe with ruffled neckline and hem with a sash of blue satin at the empire waistline. She wore a matching blue forward headpiece and carried a crescent bouquet of blue and white shasta daisies with sala foliage.

The bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Josefowicz, cousin of the bride, from Brooklyn, N.Y.

Book Club picnic at George home

STROUDSBURG — Book Club held a picnic supper at the home of Mrs. V. P. George on Thursday, Aug. 1. Three members enjoyed swimming, Jean Kukla, Dawn Zahorik and Virginia George.

When the rains came, everyone went indoors and listened to Josephine Chaffier play the piano and sing.

Regular meetings will resume in September.

Ryan Grover host to 21 on birthday

EAST STROUDSBURG — Ryan Eric Grover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale E. Grover of 497 Stokes Ave., East Stroudsburg, celebrated his third birthday with a lawn party at his home.

There were 21 children present, each receiving hats, balloons, horns, candy, cake and ice cream. They played games with prizes for the winners.

Ryan's birthday cake was a large hobby horse with licorice white with coconut, with a chocolate saddle trimmed with lifesavers, which also formed the eyes. The mane and tail were of licorice. The cake had been baked by Mrs. Clyde White.

Children present were Jeff Lambert, Mary Lynn Hartman, Sherri Acc, Billy Bradley, Daniel DeRosa, Silesia Strunk, Tracy Ammerman, David Comenal, Kevin Williams, John Metzgar, Rebecca Arbochus, Joe Possinger, Melissa Lambert, Keith Williams, Eric Ammerman, Dean Comenal, Brian Potcher, Roberta Arbochus, Linda Williams and Michael Lambert.

Joc Possinger and Dean Comenal led the singing of happy birthday and also helped to pass out treats.

Adults present were Mrs. Earl Ammerman, Mrs. Sandy Bradley, Mrs. Barbara Ace, Mrs. Mary Lambert, Mrs. LeRoy Bowman, Mrs. Myrtle Bowman, Mrs. Barbara Strunk, Frank DeRosa came to take pictures.

Also sending gifts were Mrs. Wanda Gordon, Mrs. Sandy Edinger and daughter Michelle, Lewis Frantz, Catherine Rozett, Mark Lambert, Mrs. Donna Reish and son, Troy and Katherine Wain.

Ryan is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Grover, 790 Bryant St., Stroudsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Bowman Jr. of East Stroudsburg R.D. 2. He is the great-grandson of Mrs. Myrtle Bowman, East Stroudsburg R.D. 2, and Mrs. Mabel Musselman, 254 Broadhead Ave., East Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Bogert entertains lodge officers

STROUDSBURG — The officers and substitutes of St. John's Sisterhood, Dames of Malta, were the guests of a sister officer, Mrs. Theresa Bogert, at her summer home at Monroe Lake above Marshalls Creek.

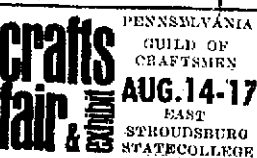

A covered dish luncheon at noon was followed by games with prizes for the winners.

Enjoying the day were: Naomi Eilenberger, Catherine Knowles, Helen Walker, Christina Teeler, Virgie Fleming, Agnes Smith, Marguerite Wagner, Arlene Young, Hazel Detrick, Mary Smith, Mary Price, Elizabeth Hintz, Laura Courtright and Jennie Meixell. Five officers were absent.

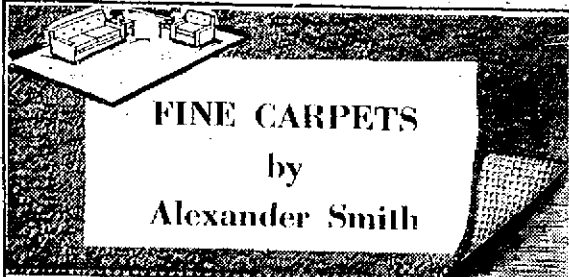

The results of the bakeless bake sale were excellent. It was reported, and other projects are being considered. An afghan is being made for the Christmas party project in December.

Members are invited to an open house celebrating the 50th wedding of the deputy of St. John's Sisterhood, Mrs. Ella Oakes and her husband James of Chinchilla, on Sunday, Aug. 25.

For effective bedroom decor, hang an extra set of matching washable bedspreads as draperies. They have sufficient body to drape in handsome folds.

Miss Sonya Fetherman
(Memory Studio)

August 31 wedding date set

STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Helen Fetherman of 1148 West Main St., Stroudsburg, announces the engagement of her daughter, Sonya, to Kerry Fred Klink, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Klink of 35 Eurdman Ave., Princeton, N.J.

The bride's father was the late Alvin J. Fetherman.

She is a graduate of East Stroudsburg High School and is attending East Stroudsburg State College. Her fiancé, a graduate of Princeton High School, attends Tusculum College in Tennessee.

They plan to be married Aug. 31 and both will attend Florida State University.

used a cloudy day to get their shopping done. Parking places were at a premium, the aisles of the stores looked like one shopping day to Christmas — and I didn't recognize a single soul.

One good thing about these annual family reunions is that those attending are able to recognize members of their own families when they meet. This is particularly important in the case of the younger fry who can grow out of all recognition in a few short months.

I'm always awed by the numbers that turn out for second generation reunions — like 50 and 75, although mathematically it's not hard to account for. Multiplying the children and grandchildren by two to allow for wives and husbands and adding on children and a few in-laws and it all adds up.

However family reunions provide sober reflections for young people contemplating matrimony: "us two and the world well lost" and the next thing you know enough people to fill the Mayflower.

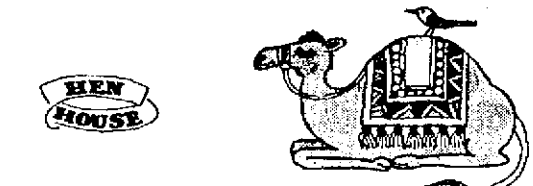

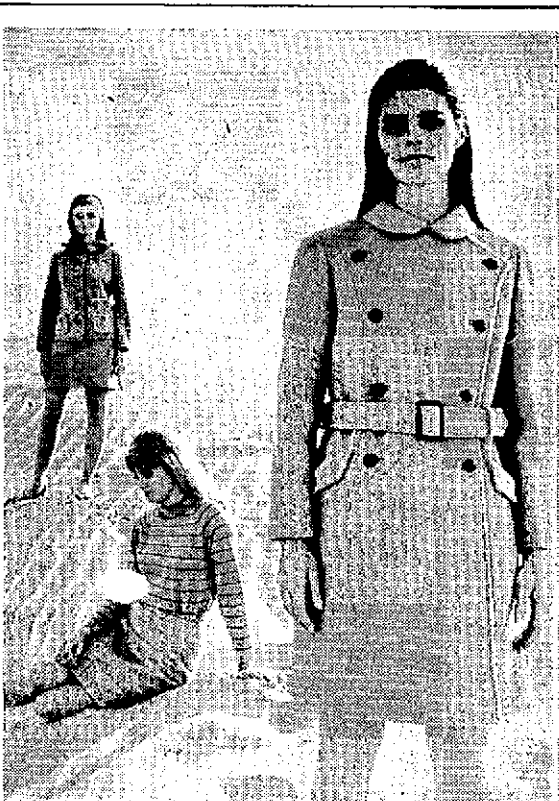

And judging by the rate at which our weddings are holding up through the summer maybe we'd better take more seriously the prospect of colonizing the moon.

Sosaties from South Africa combine chunks of lamb, onions and dried apricots marinated in a hot and spicy sauce and grilled over charcoal.

African kebabs for grille

By HARVA HACHTEN
CAPE TOWN (AP) — From the Pillars of Hercules to the very tip of the Cape of Good Hope, smoke is rising—the smoke of charcoal fires cooking various kinds of kebabs to a tasty turn. All along the Atlantic coast, kebab cookery is a favorite part of African cuisine.

In Morocco, kebabs are served in the most elegant restaurants as well as by street vendors who carry their portable braziers from corner to corner. In fine restaurants kebabs are served as an hors d'oeuvre or the main course. Street chefs sandwich them in a long bun seasoned with a sprinkle of powdered cumin and a smear of volcano-hot cayenne sauce.

Tsitsinga is the name they go by in Ghana where cooks use tomatoes, onions and roasted cornmeal to give them their distinctive flavor. The roasted cornmeal, called "abemenu," is ready-prepared and is used in many dishes.

Farther south in South Africa, charcoal barbecuing has a whole cuisine of its own rooted in the traditions of the Boer pioneers. The Afrikaans term for barbecuing is "vleisbraai." The most popular kebab recipe is for sosaties and like much of traditional South African cooking, borrows heavily from the spice shelves of the Malaysians who were brought as slaves to the 17th century Cape Colony by the Dutch East India Company.

MOROCCAN KEBABS

- 1 1/2 pounds lean beef or lamb, cut in 1 1/2-inch cubes
- 1/2 to 3/4 pound beef or lamb fat, cut in 1-inch pieces
- 3 medium onions, finely chopped
- 1/2 cup finely chopped parsley
- Salt, cayenne pepper and ground cumin to taste

Place all ingredients in a shallow dish, tossing well so onions, parsley and seasonings are blended and meat is thoroughly coated. Marinate for several hours. Insert meat and fat cubes alternately on skewers. Grill over a very hot fire, seasoning with more cumin when half done. Provide each diner with a small dish of cumin and one of hot pepper sauce. Moroccans dip each cube first in cumin, then in the sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

SOSATIES

- 2 tablespoons salad oil
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 tablespoon grated coconut
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons curry powder
- Salt to taste
- 1 tablespoon ground black pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon turmeric
- 2 cups cider vinegar
- 2 cups water
- 4 bay leaves
- 3 pounds boneless leg of lamb, cut in 1 1/2-to 2-inch cubes
- 4 medium-small onions, peeled with roots left on and quartered
- 1/2 cup dried apricots
- 1/2 cup raisins

Heat oil; stir in flour; remove from heat. Stir in coconut, sugar, curry powder, salt, pepper and turmeric. Gradually stir in vinegar and water, keeping smooth. Cook, stirring constantly, until boiling; simmer about 5 minutes; add bay leaves. Cool. Mix with meat, onions, apricots and raisins. Refrigerate, covered.

Ancient Greek festivities contributed today's familiar New York's symbols — the New Year Babe and Father Time.

overnight. On long skewers, insert meat, onion and apricots. (Leave any small pieces of onion in sauce.) Grill over glowing charcoal. Meanwhile simmer marinade and serve with Sosaties. Accompany with rice, chopped peanuts, chutney and grated coconut. Makes 8 servings.

Food Editor's Note: This makes a very hot and spicy dish that proved popular with tasters who enjoy food of this kind. To cut the acid flavor, you might like to use 1 1/4 cups cider vinegar instead of the 2 cups called for.

This lord of the manor takes tourists in stride

LONDON (UPI) — Americans have the strange habit of crossing the Atlantic to see England's stately homes while failing to bother much about their own.

So says Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, a man well qualified on the subject because he tops the British stately home stakes with 552,000 visitors a year to his mansion, motor museum and ruined abbey in southern England. Lord Montagu just tops the Duke of Bedford, who has 500,000 visitors a year at Woburn Abbey.

"Down along the Mississippi, marvelous old plantation houses are falling to rack and ruin," said the 41-year-old Lord Montagu.

"It's strange that Americans rush over here and don't do as much as they should to preserve their own stately homes. The general public there does not seem as interested in their own places as they are over here."

But he finds Americans make the more satisfying visitors because most of the English are simply interested in seeing how the other half lives.

"The English are naturally inquisitive about other people's homes," said Lord Montagu. "American visitors are very much more serious and much more appreciative. I suppose because if they have paid to come all the way to Europe, they really want to. It is not just an afternoon out for them.

"They ask very intelligent questions on the whole and they are always amazed by the age of things. Of course, they have nothing that they can compare with and they can't visualize something standing for 700 years," as Beaulieu Abbey has.

"Americans are always fascinated with ghosts and we do have some, mostly singing monks. Beaulieu is so accustomed to ghosts that we don't really think about them. We just accept them, so visitors are more surprised than we are."

Britain has more than 600 stately homes open to the public. A good many are lived in by families who have owned them for generations but would have to sell up now but for the money provided by the entrance fees.

This method of income has its drawbacks.

Lord Montagu, married with two children, said, "Once you have started to open your house to the public, it is no longer your home. You are sharing it with the public. That is the price you pay to keep the house in your family and in good condition."

"You sacrifice privacy for keeping your house. It is part of our heritage. Maybe the time will come when these houses cannot be kept, but it would be a sad day if they become state institutions. They lose a lot by not being lived in."

"I think the public recognizes it is a far greater sacrifice for families to keep them than sell up and live in the Bahamas."

One of the rooms open to the public at Beaulieu is Lord Montagu's dining room, but he said wryly, "They don't walk through when we are eating."

Johnson signs anti-crime law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed Wednesday a bill aimed at controlling juvenile crime through a program of prevention and rehabilitation. The measure authorizes $650 million during the next three years for a combination of approaches to deal with youthful crime and potential delinquents.

That one-woman concert that Barbara Streisand gave in New York's Central Park in the summer of 1966 will finally reach the television screen in a one-hour taped version Sept. 15 on CBS Network.

The bidding:

Opening lead—ace of clubs.
The opening lead is very often the most critical play of a hand. In the long run, most good players will lose more tricks on the opening lead than on the next twelve tricks combined. The reason is not hard to find — it is simply much easier to defend correctly after you see 26 cards than it is when you see only the 13 cards in front of you before dummy comes down.
The best guide to the opening lead usually comes from the bidding. In an effort to arrive at their best contract, declarer and his partner frequently exchange extremely revealing information about their respective hands which the defenders are then free to turn to their own advantage.

Take this case where South gets to four hearts on the sequence shown.
In considering his opening lead, West should reason from the bidding that North-South have at least eight clubs between them (probably divided 3-5 or 4-4, possibly 4-5).
This perfectly valid assumption leads to the inevitable conclusion that East has at most one club and can ruff the second round of the suit.
Accordingly, West starts out with the ace of clubs and, after East follows suit, continues with his highest club—the ten—as a signal for East to return the higher suit (as between spades and diamonds) after he ruffs the club at trick two.
Without this suit-directing play of the ten, East would have a difficult guess about which suit to return at trick three. But thanks to the ruffing convention, East automatically leads back a spade after ruffing the club.
West wins with the ace, returns a third club ruffed by East, and the outcome is that South loses the first four tricks to go down one.
Without the ace of clubs lead, declarer would have no trouble making the contract.

Prisoners' thirst quenched

STROUDSBURG — The combined efforts of security forces in Monroe County resulted in the apprehension of a New Jersey man Tuesday night as he was "caught in the act" of attempting to furnish beer to prisoners at the Monroe County Jail.

Sheriff Forrest Sebring, making the report, said "we have been trying to get after this for some time" and with the cooperative efforts of Stroudsburg State Police, Stroudsburg Borough Police, Sheriff Deputies and citizens, were successful.

This is a felony, Sebring said.

As a result of these efforts, Francis J. Rice of 59 James St., Newark, N.J., is being detained in the county jail in default of $1,000, Sebring said, awaiting preliminary hearing.

Rice was arraigned before Floyd W. Kellogg, Stroudsburg Justice of the Peace.

Pupils hear of friendly policemen

STROUDSBURG — Pre-kindergarten boys and girls in the local Head Start Program learned Wednesday that "the policeman is your friend."

Officer Kenneth O. Williams of the Stroudsburg Police Department spoke to the children at Stroudsburg High School. He warned them of the hazards of speaking with strangers and encouraged them to speak with a policeman when they felt in trouble.

Williams reviewed basic "don'ts" for the children. He told them never to accept gifts from strangers, never to accept rides from persons they didn't know, never to enter an empty building with a stranger, and to be generally wary of strangers who speak to them on the street.

He passed out pamphlets to the children on the subject. This is the second year the Stroudsburg Police Department has addressed the Head Start children.

Polk approves stop signs

KRESGEVILLE — The Polk Township Supervisors voted Monday to install stop signs throughout the township, according to Secretary Lawrence Getz.

Getz said the signs would be installed at every intersection, and that the state would pay for signs at intersections of state and township routes.

Also approved was the erection of speed limit signs of 40 miles per hour in Kresgeville, and a large sign indicating the dangerous curve near the Kresgeville Hotel. Getz said the supervisors also anticipate installing lighting at the curve.

Final approval has also been received for blacktopping 1.1 miles of road in the Honeycomb Hideaway area. Getz said the work, which will be done by local contractors, will begin shortly.

Woman starts equity case

STROUDSBURG — Nancy L. Farry, Stroud Township, filed a complaint in equity against her former husband, George, also of Stroud Township, claiming he refuses to make arrangements for the sale of a jointly-owned home.

Mrs. Farry requested appointment of a trustee by Judge Arlington W. Williams to sell the premises and arrange for a division of the proceeds.

The couple was divorced last December according to the complaint.

Mrs. Bowman rites held

EAST STROUDSBURG — Funeral services for Mrs. Minnie Bowman, 50, of 30 Grandview St., East Stroudsburg, were held Wednesday in the Lanterman Funeral Home with Rev. Harold C. Eaton officiating.

Burial was in the Prospect Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Arthur Gilliland, Richard Gilliland, Tony Wallace, Donald Transue, Gene Van Why, and Bronell Hinneline.

Man tries to hang himself

STROUDSBURG — Paul H. Klinger, 39, of 257 Washington St., East Stroudsburg was taken to the Allentown State Hospital Wednesday morning by the Monroe County Sheriff's Deputies following an attempt by Klinger to hang himself in his cell at the Monroe County Jail Monday night.

According to Sheriff Forrest Sebring, Klinger was committed to jail Saturday afternoon after East Stroudsburg police restrained him at his home.

Klinger reportedly was holding his 10-year old son Paul Jr., by his feet and dangling him from a fire escape on the fourth floor of the apartment building.

Klinger was committed on a charge of assault and battery and bail was set at $1,000, following Saturday's incident.

Bail was raised to $5,000 on Tuesday after H.D. Larison Sr., East Stroudsburg justice of the peace, conferred with Dist. Atty. Phillip H. Williams.

Klinger, Monday night, reportedly had tied two socks together and secured them around a bar on a bunk bed, placing his head through the noose which he formed, according to Sebring.

Deputies John Henshaw and Travis Seese saw the attempt and prevented Klinger from going further.

Grant given for Tocks medical study

EASTON — Application for a $64,000 grant is being made to initiate a master plan of study to determine the medical needs of the Tocks Island region by the Greater Lehigh Valley Hospital and Health Planning Council.

The executive committee of the Council Tuesday night approved an application for a Kellogg Foundation grant for a Tocks Island Regional health facilities and manpower study.

The scope of the study will cover hospitals with specific emphasis on emergency facilities, extended care facilities, post-hospitalization programs; emergency service, intercommunication service for emergencies, recruitment of nursing and paramedical staff and capital and operational financing.

The Council is cooperating with the Tocks Island Regional Advisory Council, the Health Facilities Planning Council of New Jersey and the Hospital Review and Planning Council of Southern New York, Inc. in preparing the study.

Traffic light set in E-burg

EAST STROUDSBURG — The State Highways Department has given East Stroudsburg approval to install a traffic light at the corner of East Brown and Prospect Streets.

Council has received a number of complaints about congestion at the intersection, especially during visiting hours at the General Hospital of Monroe County and during shift changes of hospital personnel.

Traffic from the hospital has been backed up for several hours during peak periods.

During peak periods, the new traffic light will work on a set sequence, but during non-peak periods there will be a constant red light on Brown Street until a car runs over a bumper strip activating the light mechanism.

A. Stampone of Roseto dies at 72

ROSETO — Anthony Stampone, 72, of 125 Garibaldi Ave., Roseto, died Wednesday morning in the Easton Hospital.

BARNE BUILD

GOP women style-setters

By MARY BETH LARRABEE
Record Convention Bureau

MIAMI BEACH — The "leading ladies" of the Republican party were in the spotlight Wednesday morning at a brunch in the huge main ballroom of the Fontainebleau hotel.

Over 2,000 women delegates, alternates, and others here for the convention gathered to honor the wives of the candidates, the women members of Congress, and the wives of Republican Governors and Congressional leaders.

Mrs. Richard Nixon drew the most applause as she entered the crowded ballroom, but Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller ran a close second. Mrs. John A. Volpe, wife of the Massachusetts

Governor was at the head table along with Rep. Margaret Heckler (R. Mass.). Mrs. Heckler sat next to Mrs. Ronald Reagan and found her very natural and charming. "A great asset to her husband."

This was an occasion for red, white, and blue dresses and the buttons of your choice. Mrs. Rockefeller wore watermelon pink which complimented her tan, and Mrs. Nixon was radiant in white. The most unusual dress was worn by Mrs. John Davis Lodge, Jr., wife of the former congressman from Connecticut and Ambassador to Spain. It was made of four large white silk scarves, sprinkled with red elephants and edged in navy blue.

The oranges—fruit and color—were prominent as they have been at all convention functions. Each orange-covered table was centered by a miniature orange tree and the walls were lined with larger ones tied with real oranges.

The "leading ladies", and others who hope to be in Washington next year, were advised on how to handle the press by a panel of Washington newswomen. The discussion was moderated by Lawrence Spivak, producer of "Meet The Press". In commenting on the problems of women reporters, Marianne Means, political columnist, remarked that a woman reporter must "act like a lady, look like a girl, think like a man, and work like a dog."

Mrs. Mary Brooks, assistant chairman of the Republican National Committee, who was hostess for the brunch, took pride in introducing the "Musical Notes", a young singing group from the slums of Chicago who entertained with spirituals and popular songs.

The group was organized through the family center program sponsored by Republican women in an area of Chicago which has seen several riots.

The center offers tutoring, counseling, and recreation for the youth in the area, and the singing group was sent to Miami to call attention to the need for community involvement by other Republican Women's organizations throughout the country.

The whole audience was touched by their naturalness and talent, and when they sang the Battle Hymn of the Republic, there was hardly a dry eye in the room.

The luncheon menu was planned to be hearty enough to sustain the delegates through a long evening of balloting when they would probably have no dinner. It was also designed to be low in cholesterol and the women were given a booklet to aid in planning meals for their over-worked husbands. Each state was represented by young hostesses in identical dresses specially designed in a Republican flowered print.

No matter who wins the nomination, the Republican women at the Convention will be able to say: "I had lunch with his wife in Miami."

Fatal crash remains mystery

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg Police said Wednesday there were "no further developments" in their investigation into the traffic death of Mrs. Minnie Bowman, 49, of 30 Grandview Ave., East Stroudsburg, early Monday.

Mrs. Bowman was killed either when she was thrown from the car in which she was riding or when she was picked up and dragged 84 feet by a car which came upon the scene after the wreck. The incident occurred on Route 80, below the Seventh St. Bridge.

Mrs. Florence Freeman of Stroudsburg RD 3, the driver of the car with which Mrs. Bowman's collided, and Debra Lyons, her daughter, of Brooklyn, both still listed in satisfactory condition in the General Hospital of Monroe County.

Police have still not been able to establish whether Mrs. Bowman or Stanley Roebor of Tannersville drove the car which is considered the cause of the accident, when it cut off the Freeman car. Roebor, police said, still says he cannot remember who was driving, and Mrs. Freeman cannot remember either, they said.

Man held in car case

STROUDSBURG — Preliminary hearing for Barry Parsons, 445 Hawthorne Terrace, Stroudsburg, was held Tuesday in the office of Stroud Township justice of the peace Raymond Silver.

Silver found the state had a prima facie case on Parsons for operating a motor vehicle without a license.

Parsons was originally remanded to jail pending $500 bail but posted bail Wednesday.

Prima facie is evidence in law to raise a presumption of fact or establish the fact in question unless rebutted.

Acting couple delights Kiwanis meeting

STROUDSBURG — Paul McGrath's impression of his former part as the "chilling host" of Inner Sanctum prompted a standing ovation from members and guests of the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club on Wednesday.

McGrath and his wife of five weeks, Ann Sargeant, were special guests of Kiwanis and are two of the stars of "Desk Set" currently on stage at the Pocono Playhouse.

Kiwanis members were treated to a live tape recorded interview of the special "acting" guests by Sally Ferrebee of WVPO radio station.

Dr. Robert Christman of Newfoundland writes out a prescription in his office where he has been a general practitioner since 1951. (Staff Photo by Grady)

Doctor fights cancer threat; continues N'fld practice

NEWFOUNDLAND — Dr. Robert Christman of Newfoundland will be 80 on Oct. 12, and like Columbus he has explored (not the land and the sea) but the human heart and body for the past 50 years.

A few years ago he developed cancer of the larynx. Cobalt treatments failed to stop the cancer growth and in January he underwent a laryngectomy at Temple University Hospital, Philadelphia.

He returned to his Newfoundland area practice with medical bag and stethoscope but minus his vocal chords. Speechless, he diagnosed patients with pad and pencil, asking them in writing the nature of their ailments.

"A patient tells him what the trouble is, and he writes out on the pad his diagnosis," his wife, the former widow of Dr. Allen A. Berlin and still practicing Registered Nurse, Mrs. Mary Christman, said Tuesday.

"I can't remember him taking a day off from his practice, either here or in Lehigh, except for the time in the hospital," Mrs. Christman said.

She doesn't know how many babies her husband delivered in the Newfoundland area since 1951 but she herself recalls bringing into the world 125 babies in the last 25 years.

"Most of them were delivered around the Lehigh area during World War II years when doctors were hard to come by," she said.

A graduate of Harvard Medical School (1915), Dr. Christman began his general practice in Weissport, Pa., and then gradually branched out as a heart specialist and general surgeon.

A call to his Weissport office cost 50 cents and if he had to go on an outside call, he raised his fee to 75 cents.

"Even today, if a patient calls him, he'll go. I can't remember him ever turning anybody down on a call," Mrs. Christman said.

Dr. Christman's father, Lewis, ran the general store and was also the local undertaker in Kresgeville in the early 1900s.

The Christmans have one son, Lewis K., a teacher in Oley Valley High School, Oley, Pa.

Mrs. Christman owned and operated the Holiday Hill Nursing Home, Newfoundland, from 1961-1965.

More work on Rt. 209

MARSHALLS CREEK — William Quinn, Monroe County Superintendent, state highway department of highways, announced that the section of Route 209 approaching the intersection in Marshalls Creek will be closed today to continue corrective road work.

The highway department will be placing "rumble strips" at measured intervals into the road to act as a signal warning device for motorists approaching the intersection of Route 209 into Business Route 209 in Marshalls Creek.

Quinn said the section of Route 209 from Holiday Inn in East Stroudsburg to the intersection will be closed most of the day, starting at 8:30 a.m. and a detour will be set up.

Car rammed from behind

EASTON — A car operated by David A. Rode, 55, of Stroudsburg, R. D. 2, was struck in the rear by a vehicle driven by Gary Edelson, 16, of Lancaster on Route 512 near Moorestown.

Easton State Police reported the accident Monday night and said Rode had stopped his car in a line of traffic when it was struck by the Edelson vehicle.

Stroud Twp. resident vigorously protests restaurant erection

STROUDSBURG — An irate Stroud Township resident almost condemned the Stroud Township supervisors at their regular meeting Wednesday night for allowing the construction of a restaurant across the street from the Stroud Township Municipal Building.

The resident, Ronald Morton of 1155 Appenzeller Ave., said he is unhappy with planning and zoning within the township which would permit construction of such a facility.

The restaurant is being constructed by Albert Scavo and Joseph Dipipit. The establishment is a combination restaurant and bar, but Scavo several days ago said that it will be primarily a restaurant. Although it will have bar facilities, it will not be a bar per se, he explained.

Township supervisors privately said later that even if the zoning regulations were adopted, the area where the restaurant is now under construction would be commercial. Morton, adamant over the construction of the facility, said he had circulated a petition and already has more than 200 names. The petition, he said, will be presented to the Liquor Control Board at a hearing in Wilkes-Barre over the licensing of the establishment.

In a letter to the supervisors, Morton cites five specific reasons why he is against the restaurant. The letter was also sent to Senators T. Newell Wood, Jeanette Heibman, Z. Scott, Judge Arlington W. Williams and the State Liquor Control Board.

The reasons cited by Morton were:

The facility is across the street from the Municipal Building which houses the fire department; is located between old homes; there are three churches nearby; additional traffic would be funnelled into a small street and populated areas and that there are children living nearby who have to go to school. He said the sleep of the school youngsters would probably be interrupted due to the noise.

Township supervisors also unanimously decided to go into the mosquito control business.

Supervisors unanimously approved the purchase of a $315 jet insecticide applicator produced by the J. C. Elrich Chemical Co., Inc.

The action followed complaints of mosquitoes within the township. Secretary Harold Albert, after having received the complaints, requested information from the Monroe County Commissioners regarding a mosquito control program.

The commissioners, in a letter to Albert, said no control program is being contemplated "... mainly because proper studies should first be made in order to come up with an effective program." The commissioners suggested the township solicit aid from the State Health Department. The State Health Department told the township to solicit aid from the county.

The insecticide applicator which the township will purchase is portable and will use an insecticide and fuel oil. The insecticide would cost $37.50 in five gallon lots.

An advertising folder claims the applicator, called "Swingfog," would kill flies, gnats, mosquitoes, roaches, silverfish, wasps and other insects and pests.

Police Chief H. W. Tebbis, in his July police report, stated that 16 motor vehicle accidents were investigated; 42 traffic violations were recorded and 154 complaints were received and investigated. The patrol car travelled a total 6,031 miles.

A total $8,750 in fire loss was incurred during July according to the fire report. Firemen answered one truck fire, three car fires, one house fire, one barn fire, one grass fire.

A total 246 men answered alarms with 31 trucks and used 101,300 gallons of water. Three Monday night drills were held with an average of 50 men attending each. Junior firemen also answered all alarms.

S-burg adopts housing codes

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg Borough Council Wednesday night unanimously adopted the four ordinance codes which apply to housing, building, plumbing and electrical codes during a public meeting and heard from Michael Cabot, planner, on recommendations for 1968 borough urban renewal planning projects.

George Robinson, borough council solicitor, urged council to appoint "a competent official" to police the codes. He said that the cost of policing the codes was not cheap and he stressed that council adopt reasonable permit fees for the codes.

The Monroe County Board of Health will be the enforcing agency for the codes.

Mayor Joseph Small asked Robinson if in the future the borough could appoint the code officer to take over as enforcement agency from the board of health.

"If it proves more efficient, yes," said Robinson. But he warned council that "codes put tremendous power and responsibility on the code officer."

Michael Cabot, director of Cabot Associates, regional planners, termed Wednesday's adoption of the codes "a milestone" in borough community progress.

"We can now complete our workable program and submit it to the proper federal agencies so that Stroudsburg can qualify for urban renewal assistance," he said.

Cabot told council that future borough planning projects have been reviewed at countless meetings with the following agencies: the Civil Advisory Commission, the Stroudsburg Planning Commission, the Monroe County Better Housing Council and Stroudsburg Merchants.

The following recommendations were listed by Cabot: Stofflet Street area, first priority for urban renewal, with eventual redevelopment for low income privately sponsored housing.

Redevelopment of First Ward area.

Moderate downtown improvement consisting of diagonal parking on Main St. after Wyckoff's parking garage is completed; improvement of S-Point intersection; beautification of downtown area under a state aided program and more improvement on traffic pattern in downtown area.

Redevelopment plans for 1969, Cabot said, call for more neighborhood improvements and also additional downtown area improvement plus the possibility of building a recreational museum in the downtown area.

Council member Warren Loney asked Cabot why was the Stofflet St. area given first priority for urban renewal?

Cabot said the result of the meetings proves that Stofflet St. suffers from poor housing and has fewer families to relocate than the First Ward area.

Council member Howard (Bud) Altemus urged council to hire an additional meter maid claiming that the present single meter maid can't take care of all the borough meters.

He said that Stroudsburg police chief John B. Tretheway recommended an addition of two meter maids to bolster the force to three maids.

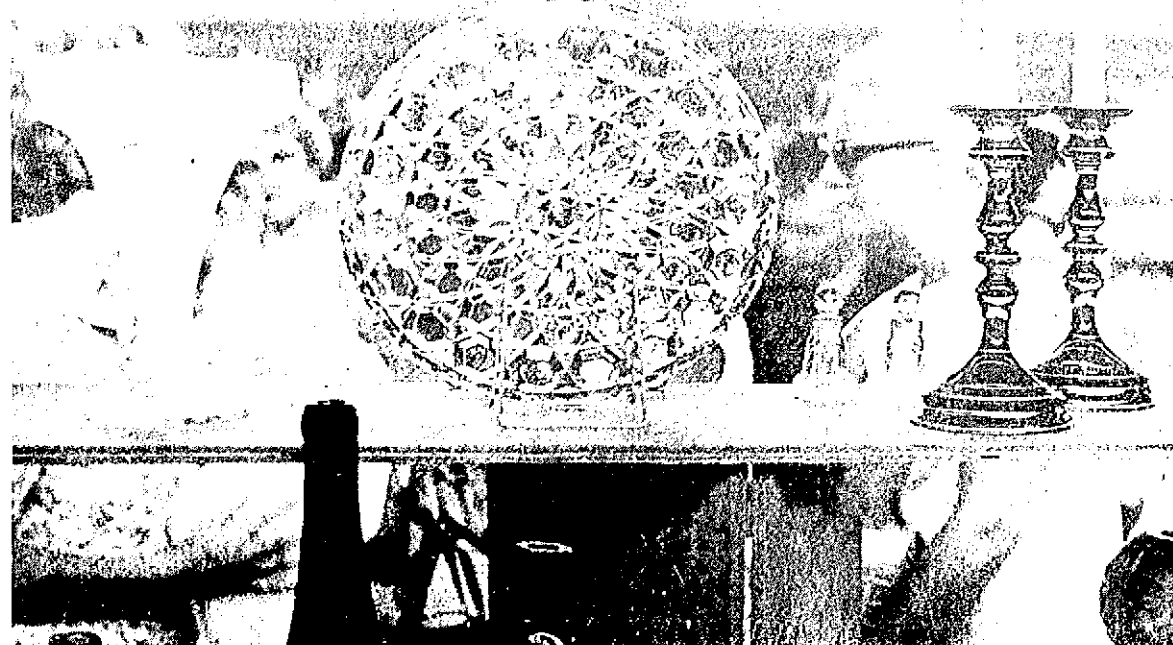

Gas firm gives plan for motel

STROUDSBURG — A $1,300,000 motel will be built on a six acre site near Int. Route 80 and West Main St., Stroudsburg, by the Sheraton Hotels, Inc., according to Shell Oil real estate representative.

Ronald Perlucke told the Stroudsburg Borough Council Wednesday that Shell is considering the erection of a Shell gas station near the motel site.

Council granted permission for Shell to cut the curb on West Main St. to construct ramps for the station.

The motel will consist of 100 units with a 140 seat restaurant and a swimming pool, according to Perlucke. The addition of the proposed motel means that within a year or two four large motels will service the Stroudsburg area: Holiday Inn, already completed; Howard Johnsons, Delaware Water Gap, soon to be constructed; a new motel scheduled to replace the Penn Stroud Hotel, Stroudsburg.

Deadline set for Montreal's major league hopes

MONTREAL (UPI) — Montreal's hopes of producing a major league baseball team got a jolt Wednesday when National League President Warren Giles told its prospective backers to put up or shut up by Aug. 15.

By that date, backers of the proposed entry into the NL will have to lay $1.2 million on the line along with a written pledge to produce a 50,000-seat domed stadium by next season.

Giles, whose loop awarded franchises to Montreal and San Diego earlier this year subject to both cities meeting its requirements, flew here for six hours of meetings with Mayor Jean Drapeau and the still unnamed team's financiers led by distillery heir Charles Brufman. They planned another round of talks starting at 5 p.m. EDT today.

There was speculation that if Montreal was unable to come up with the money—regarded as no problem anyway—and definite engineers' plans to put a roof on an open-air stadium built for Expo '67, the franchise would go elsewhere. Speculation has centered on Buffalo, N.Y., or Milwaukee.

But, although Giles made it clear Montreal would have to produce by the deadline just a week away, he conceded the situation here was far from unique. He pointed out that San Diego was having troubles as well, and drew parallels to the cases of Atlanta and Houston, where delays also gave local promoters headaches.

Brufman said he was optimistic of the outcome.

"Of course we're optimistic and hopeful," he told reporters. "If we weren't hopeful we wouldn't be holding another meeting." But he added that "not as much was accomplished today as we'd hoped."

Wednesday's talks in Mayor Drapeau's City Hall office were attended by, among others, the mayor, his city executive committee chairman Lucien Saulnier, Brufman and co-backer Lorne Webster, team lawyer Lorne Robinson, John McElahe, representing the baseball commissioner, and Bowie

Kuhn, the NL's legal adviser.

McElahe has been touted as a prospective general manager of the Montreal entry, if and when it is launched.

Giles said the latest problem to plague the promoters centered on leasing of the Autostade, the Expo '67 island World's Fair site which previously had been set aside as the home of the still unnamed Montreal baseball club.

"It's important to get into the Autostade. There's a problem about the lease, and it's a late development that just came up," Giles said.

Unofficial sources said the new problem hinged on the asking price being set for the new baseball club by the Montreal Alouette football club, which has leased the Autostade for the next three years.

Giles said the first meeting with Montreal civic leaders "didn't get down to all the real brass tacks. We exchanged views on a lot of matters."

"The membership agreement that new cities are required to sign is a long document, and contains many facets," he said.

Among the other problems Montreal's would-be promoters have to handle is the initial $12-million they must fork up as down payment on the franchise by Aug. 15 — coincidentally the same date as Giles indicated may be the day of the league decision on whether to leave the franchise in Montreal.

Giles said he expected to return to New York later Wednesday after the afternoon session of the meetings.

Montreal city executive committee chairman Lucien Saulnier and committee member Gerry Snyder, who spearheaded the drive to gain a baseball franchise for Montreal, also attended.

It had been widely speculated that Giles was making the visit as a final personal investigation before deciding to remove the franchise from Montreal and award it to either Buffalo or Milwaukee, where groups have announced willingness to field a team.

Horse show at Buck Hill

BUCK HILL FALLS — The Buck Hill Falls First Annual Open Horse Show will be held Sunday at 10 a.m.

The show will be under the direction of Hubert Rohrer, Buck Hill riding master and former member of the Spanish Riding School of Vienna. The judge will be Mrs. Muriel Harris from Bedminster, N.J.

Events will include classes in jumping equitation and hunt seat.

Giants hang initial loss on Hall, 4-3

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Willie McCovey led off the eighth inning with his second homer of the game, a 400-foot tie-breaking smash into the rightfield seats, to give the San Francisco Giants a 4-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday.

The blow came off reliever Dick Hall, who had come in to open the inning and was dropped to his first defeat of the year in five decisions.

McCovey, who now leads the National League with 28 homers, had whacked No. 27 to launch the sixth and put San Francisco ahead, 3-1.

But the Phillies deadlocked the contest with a two-run rally in the eighth, featuring run-scoring singles by Don Lock and Cookie Rojas. Rojas tied the game with his third hit of the day.

Frank Linzy, who gave up the key single to Rojas, still came out of the game with his fifth win of the year against seven losses. Southpaw Ray Sadecki started for San Francisco and hurled the first 7 2-3 innings.

Hal Lanier, trying again to become a switch hitter, cracked two key singles lefthanded which figured in San Francisco's first two runs.

Ordinarily a righthanded swinger, the lanky shortstop singled across the game's first run in the second, then singled again lefthanded in the fifth and eventually tallied a second run for the Giants on Ron Hunt's sacrifice fly.

British Olympic hopefuls Colin Campbell and Lillian Board are all smiles as they hold a check for 3,258 pounds (about 7,800 dollars) and a number of 23-peso silver coins here Wednesday. The check was presented to the British Olympic Appeal Fund by the London branch of the First National Bank of Chicago. The money is the profit made so far from the sale of the 23-peso coins, specially minted by the Mexican government to commemorate the upcoming 1968 Summer Olympics at Mexico City. (UPI Cablephoto)

Granatelli turbo cars to stay in competition

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Andy Granatelli said Wednesday he will not withdraw his controversial turbocar from competition, despite a double setback handed him recently by the United States Auto Club.

But he said his plans for next year's 500-mile Speedway auto race here were undecided except that he will continue to use the four-wheel drive system his stable has pioneered in USAC racing since 1964.

In entering a turbine-driven car for the 200-mile championship race at Milwaukee Aug. 18, Granatelli again blasted USAC officials for cutting the power of turbine engines by 25 percent after this year and for banning four-wheel drive after 1969.

"The recent successes of Al Unser in a four-wheel drive car proves the safety and efficiency of this drive system which will be banned from USAC racing along with general utility turbine engines after 1969," Granatelli said.

"We can only hope that USAC rule-makers will shift their thinking to allow the safety brought by four-wheel drive systems to continue in racing."

Granatelli, whose turbocars this year and in 1967 came within a few miles of winning the "500," said such machines would remain in USAC competition "for the balance of this year."

This car at Milwaukee will be driven by Art Pollard. If another turbocar is entered in that race, it will probably be driven by Joe Leonard, who placed such a machine on the pole for this year's Memorial Day grind.

Jets plunk big Sherman on waivers

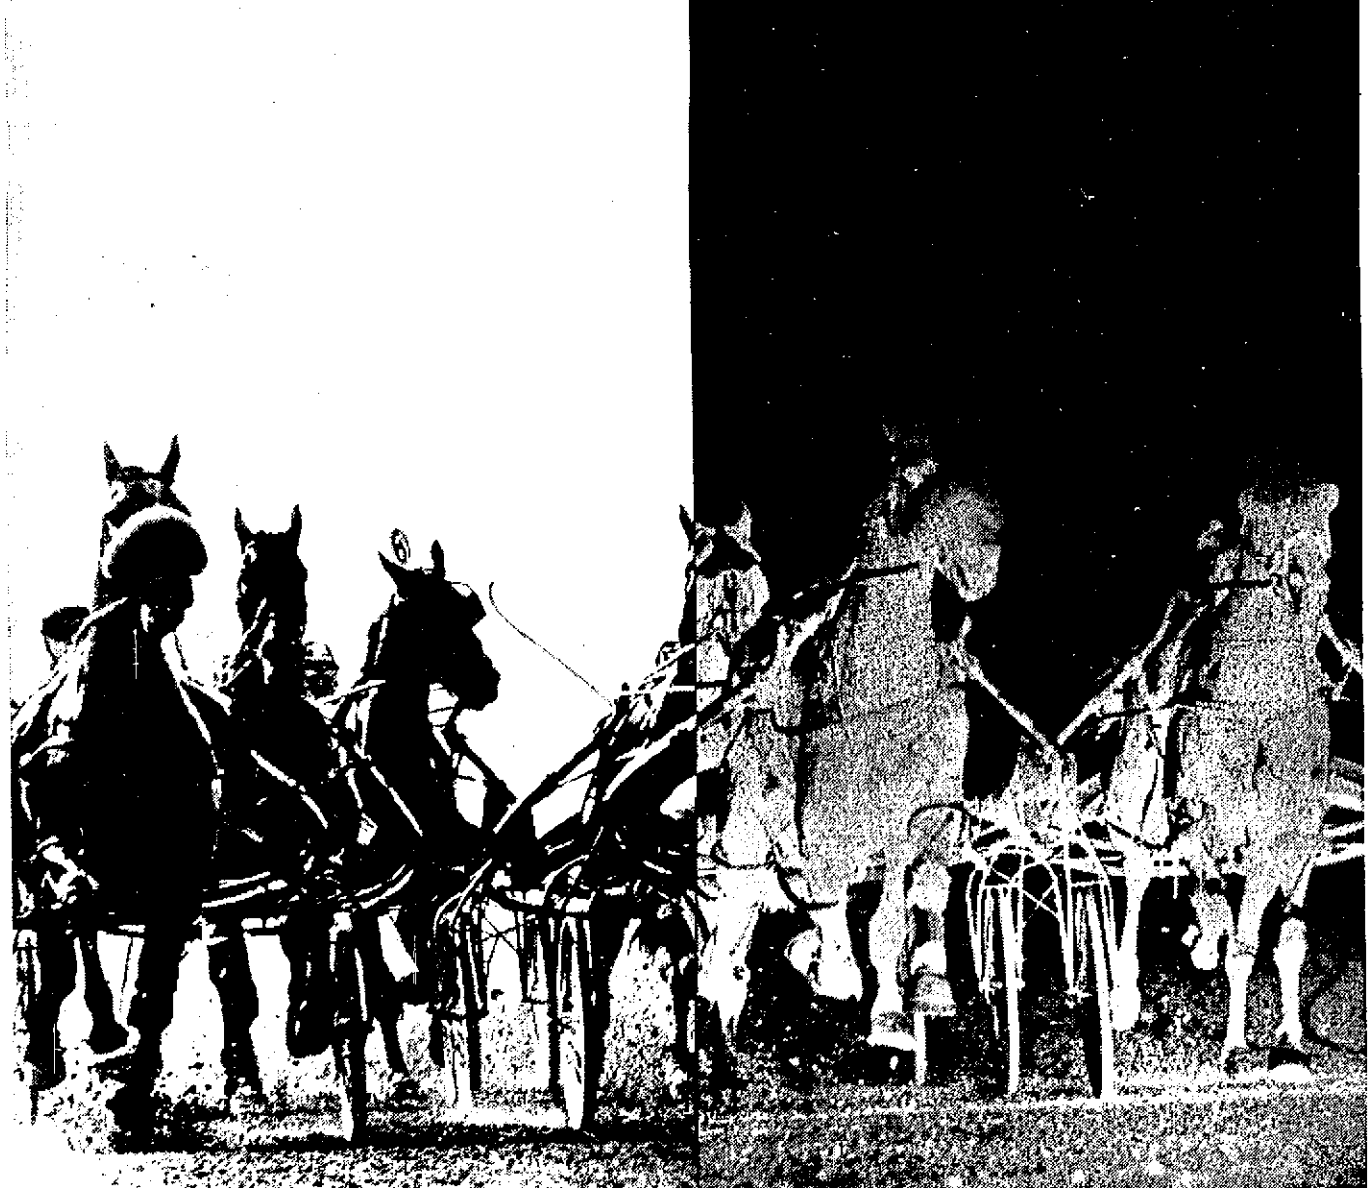

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tackle Sherman Plunkett, who reported to camp 30 pounds overweight, was placed on waivers at his own request Wednesday by the New York Jets.

Plunkett, whose 10-year professional career spanned both the National and American Football Leagues, has been with the Jets for five seasons, playing in every game. Coach Weeb Ewbank told the 32-year-old lineman to report this year at 300 pounds.

Plunkett was offensive captain of the Jets last season and had starred earlier for Ewbank at Baltimore when he helped the Colts to back-to-back NFL titles in 1958 and 1959.

The mammoth tackle came to the Jets from San Diego in 1963 for a seventh round draft choice.

DAY & NIGHT RACING THIS SATURDAY!

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—They named a street after Vince Lombardi Wednesday, and the rugged general manager of the Green Bay Packers was touched.

His usual bellowing voice was reduced to an almost inaudible mumble as he said "I'm really thrilled," and accepted a proclamation changing the name of Highland Avenue to Lombardi Avenue.

The street runs in front of the Packer stadium where Lombardi's teams ran up so many of the victories that led to five world titles during his tenure.

The street renaming was one of the highlights of a day-long celebration honoring Lombardi. It concluded Wednesday night with a boxed chicken dinner for 5,000 in the Brown County arena.

New lights for Rory

Those of you who remember the Friday Night Fights will have no trouble remembering Rory Calhoun. He was the Friday Night Fighter. God knows how many razor blades, tubes of shaving cream, bottles of beer he sold. Twenty-seven times he went to the post when the red light came on, and sometimes it took them a week to mop up the blood.

Rory (real name: Herman Calhoun) was what they call a "crowd-pleaser." As someone noted, "crowd-pleasers" usually wind up pleasing the crowd at a shoeshine stand. You go from the roar of the crowd to this buzzing in your ears, from squaring off with an opponent in the ring to sparring with telephone poles.

Rory always fought as if he had a more pressing engagement later in the night. His fights could have been held in a tub. Rory wasn't a junk fighter. He threw the fast ball right from the opening bell. If you came in late, all you got to see was Rory putting his robe back on. All Rory asked of a referee was that he be able to count to 10. "I remember Calhoun," the guys carrying buckets in the gym tell you. "A banger. A one-armed fighter. If you let him hit you, you'd be better off stopping a train."

Rory made a quarter-million dollars, but, the way he fought, that came out to about a quarter a nosebleed, a nickel a scar (a good 5-cent scar?) and a sawbuck for each split lip. He gave and got lumps.

Today, he shines lights on factory doors all night for a living. The $250,000 is all gone. Oh, it didn't go for bright lights and fuchsia Cadillacs. Rory never went anywhere with his own hairdresser. The places he went to, you could walk. He wasn't a bright-lights guy. His idea of a great night spot was Carnegie Hall.

Colored fighters aren't supposed to like any music you can't tap dance to. But Rory used to work himself up for a fight listening to music by a lot of dead Russians you could only cry to. "The things he'd do to guys in the ring, you'd think they had to get him back in his room with a cattle prod," his manager, Frank Bachman, used to say. "But you'd go in a little while later and he'd be lying there listening to 'Moonlight Sonata' in a dark room."

Rory was too good to be champion. He always stopped just short of the big money because just short of the big money because, in those days, Ray Robinson was the aging titleholder and the only way he could keep his title (to say nothing of his eyesight and teeth) was to fight overblown welterweights or New England champions whose style was modeled after a housemaid with a feather duster.

Too good for title shot They led Rory the other untouchables of the division in the hope they would cancel each other out — Randy Sandy, Yolande Pompey, Henry Hanks, Bobby Boyd, Spider Webb and the venerable Tiger Jones. They put him in with Dick Tiger when "Tiger" was newly over from Africa and the fight mob wasn't sure whether that was his name or his species.

"In those days, you were just glad when Tiger didn't eat you," Bachman once observed. Rory went 20 rounds with him. When they were over, each guy looked more like he'd been in a spear fight than a fist fight.

Most of Rory's take went for taxes, but today he will take only part-time work because he wants to leave plenty of time for acting. He made one serious mistake. He found he couldn't put Shakespeare away in one round. He went at the Bard as if he were a prelin fighter, and Rory's dramatic coach seemed to think he wanted a career in the Old Vic. Rory's ambitions run more to Channel 9. He'd rather be Jim Brown than John Gielgud. And, of course, 20 rounds with Dick Tiger never improved anyone's larynx for Shakespeare's tongue twisters.

He could have been middleweight champ of the world, but boxing kept him in a walk-on role. But maybe the performing urge can help Rory Calhoun go from the Friday Night Fights to the Saturday matinees. It's about time Rory got something easier to battle than Randy Sandy, Dick Tiger or Will Shakespeare.

Four rookies to start in Pats' first game

ANDOVER, Mass. (UPI) — Boston Patriots' coach Mike Holovak said Wednesday rookies Aaron Marsh, R.C. Gamble and Willie Porter had earned starting berths in the club's first pre-season game by their impressive work at camp.

The trio, along with No. 1 draft choice Dennis Byrd of North Carolina State, will make up the four rookies in Saturday night's game against the New Orleans Saints.

Holovak also said he would start Mike Taliaferro, obtained from the New York Jets in a deal for Babe Parilli, at quarterback in New Orleans. The rest of the starting lineup will be picked today.

Marsh, the No. 3 draft pick, from Eastern Kentucky, teamed with Taliaferro for several spectacular pass plays in scrimmage Tuesday, the final day of contact work for the game. One was a 60-yarder.

Gamble, the No. 4 selection, from South Carolina State, moved into a first-string running back slot last week when Gene Thomas was sidelined with an infection and continued to hold the post with his fine running Tuesday.

Porter, a free agent from Texas Southern, will give the Pats a 1-2 punch in Texas Southern cornerbacks with Lee Roy Mitchell.

7 top trotters re-matched for feature at Pocono Downs

WILKES-BARRE — Put Pocono Downs' top seven trotters together in one race and the finish figures to look like another charge of the light brigade.

That's the way it was last Thursday when all seven horses were strung across the track with barely 1 1/2 lengths separating the entire field. Racing Secretary Ted Leonard has scheduled virtually the same lineup for a rerun in tonight's featured $4,000 event.

Spunky Sue, owned by Rolling Green Farm of Conyngham, and handled by Roy Reisenweaver, got up the final stride to win last week in 2:03 4/5, a head in front of Tisma Boy with Warren Harp.

Spunky Sue drew seventh and outside position for tonight's race but the post disadvantage doesn't worry Reisenweaver one bit. "She's not much for getting away from the gate," Reisenweaver points out. "So we'll probably just tag along in the back and try to make our usual move in the stretch."

One of the "darkhorses" tonight will be Firm Yankee, 5-year-old Hickory Pride pounder from George Harp's barn. Firm Yankee was "parked" last week and finished a disappointing seventh after a rough trip.

But, Harp points out that Firm Yankee usually is a reliable sort and, having drawn the third lane, looms as one of the contenders. Firm Yankee has won only one race in 17 starts.

"He's an honest horse," Harp says. "His record shows that. With the right kind of trip he could be the one to beat."

Others in the race are Lady Scandal (Hal Hetzler), Rusty Demon (Brill Spriggs), Tisma Boy (Warren Harp), High Smoke (Eldon Harner), and Richie Prospect (Bob Webb).

The only newcomer to this field is Lady Scandal, who replaces Bill Pocza's Specialist. Lady Scandal won her last outing in an impressive 2:04 1/5 Saturday night.

65 low net in Shawnee ladies' golf

SHAWNEE — Mrs. Sidney Newcomb and Mrs. Frank Patterson scored a net 65 to win the Guest Day tournament of the Shawnee Women's Golf Assn. Tuesday.

A stroke behind were Mrs. James Bostick and Mrs. Claude Cramer with 66.

Individual leaders in gross scores were Mrs. Herbert Behrens with a 92 for the members and Mrs. William Diehl and Mrs. Philip Blake among the guests with 96.

In Class B Mrs. Ed Williams had 106 and in Class C Mrs. Patterson had 117.

Putting leaders were Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Olaf Pedersen. Associate putting leaders were Charlotte Edinger and Mrs. Spencer Cramer.

The Kiekers was won by Isabel Schisler and Lou Weill. Nearest to the pin on No. 8 was Audrey Cohen.

Low net was the team of Mrs. William Uhlerich and Miss Adelaide Sheble.

Shawnee golf for old, young

SHAWNEE — On Sunday, Aug. 18 Shawnee Country Club will hold its first "Kith 'n Kin Tournament." The affair is being planned by Les Ackerman and Dick Conlon and is open to any male or female adult who will compete as a team with a youngster who must not have reached 20th birthday, by Aug. 1.

Domed stadium for New Orleans?

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—With hotel-motel tax collections running true to predictions in New Orleans, domed stadium planners Thursday were hoping to have a firm cost estimate on the mammoth structure by late August.

Ned Cole, of the Gulf States Research Institute which did the initial feasibility study on the stadium, said tax collection figures released by the Division of Administration Wednesday showed the hotel-motel taxes were coming in on schedule. "This was a fiscal year report," Cole said. "Our prediction was by the end of the first year collections would be at the rate of $2 million."

The revenue collector's figures showed that $1.2 million had been collected since the 4 1/2 cent occupancy charge had been instituted to finance bonds for the 72,500 seat stadium in October.

"We are pleased," Cole said. "This meets our projection." Cole said the planners hoped to have a firm cost estimate from the architects on the project within a month. The project has been slowed by dickering over land owned by railroads in the downtown section of New Orleans.

"Dealing with railroads takes time," Cole said. "But in the next 30 days we should start acquiring land. The architects still have to give us a firm price, but by then we should have something concrete."

The stadium, to be financed by a bond issue with the state's backing, was originally estimated at a cost of $35 million. Latest estimates have been rumored to be as high as $95 million.

Cole said the planners had not been able to counter the flood of varying estimates that have stirred up widespread controvery in the state. "We can't even counter arguments, because we don't know what the cost will be," Cole said.

The domed stadium project came under fire during the legislative session and was defended by Gov. John McKeithen who personally entered the chambers of the house to defeat a move aimed at blocking the state from putting full faith and credit behind the bonds.

SKELETONIZING LEAVES: If you want to try something different, why not skeletonize leaves of trees such as magnolia, beech, etc? Gather them, soak and boil in a soda solution for 30 minutes, using a teaspoon of baking soda to a quart of water. Let the leaves cool in the solution and then spread them out on a piece of newspaper.

Scrap off the fleshy part of the leaf on both sides. Then mix two tablespoons of bleaching solution and allow the leaves to stay in the bleach for one hour. This makes them white.

Place between sheets of absorbent paper to dry. To tint: spray with aerosol spray paints and if you wish, dip in cake

Voss taking field training

MADISON — Alan Voss, 19 Lions St., East Stroudsburg, is among 41 civil engineering students of the University of Wisconsin who are now gaining practical field experience this summer in the second of two surveying camps in the heart of the Chequamegon National Forest in Wisconsin's Bayfield county.

The civil engineering students, under the guidance of their teachers, are going to school in the second of two six-week sessions at a summer surveying camp in the Namekagon lake and river country near Cable and Grandview in Bayfield county.

coloring, school inks or tinting materials.

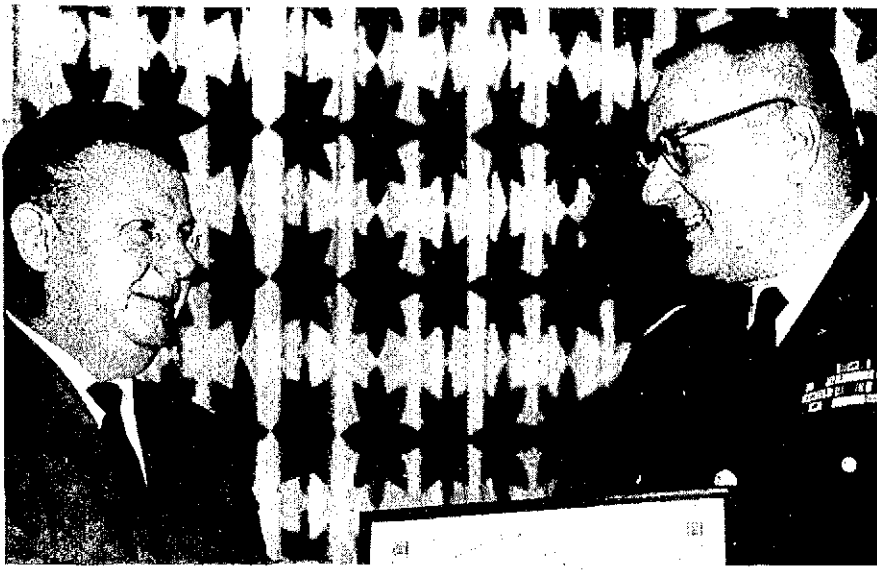

Incidentally, did you know you can preserve the colors of most of your favorite garden flowers by treating them with ordinary all-purpose flour? Gladiolus blooms, roses, lilies, callas and others can be preserved by covering the blossoms with the flower two to four weeks, depending upon the size of the blossoms. After that period the blossoms are carefully removed and the flour is dusted off them.

TOMATO TROUBLES: Many gardeners tell us that their tomatoes are starting to turn brown at the base of each fruit. This is a common occurrence this time of year. Trouble is known as blossom end rot, a heart-breaking trouble which pops up in dry weather. A mulch and lots of water will prevent this.

End-rot is worse in staked tomatoes since the leaves cannot shade the roots. That's why mulched tomatoes have less end-rot than staked ones. Leaf curl has been common this year, worse on pruned and staked tomatoes. It's worse on hot days and following heavy rains. It's not serious, unless plants are infected with mosaic.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: A reader writes: "Please tell me why we cannot grow good beets or carrots."

Answer: All tops and no bottoms may be due to close planting, or lack of thinning. Thin out excess plants so nutrients and moisture can go to bottom.

Sidney Cheesic, left, receives honorary membership in United States Army Band from Lt. Col. Samuel Loboda, the band's director and commanding officer, in ceremony at Tobyhanna Army Depot.

TAD worker honorary band member

TOBYHANNA — A Tobyhanna Army Depot employee was made an honorary member of the United States Army Band this week.

Receiving the award — the seventh such honor in the 46-year history of the famous musical unit that plays often at White House ceremonies — was Sidney Cheesic of Wilkes-Barre, a visual information specialist.

Lt. Col. Samuel Loboda, the band's director and commanding officer, made the presentation in a ceremony at the depot, attended by Depot Commander Col. Paul R. Poulin, members of his personal staff, and directors of key activities.

The citation, accompanying the honorary membership, reads in part: "For 12 fruitful years, Cheesic was employed at Fort Myer, Va., as illustrator. Fort Myer is also the home of the United States Army Band. During these years, Cheesic voluntarily contributed many ideas and manhours in furthering and enhancing the state and appearance of the Band."

"With his artistic abilities and efficient knowledge of design, he greatly assisted the Band in fulfilling its mission with pageantry and color."

Since he began his employment at the depot five years ago, Cheesic, the citation continues, "made a magnificent decorative sign in the form of a shield upon a drum major's mace that identifies the home of the Band and Chorus, and decorated with the band's coat of arms a complete set of 10 field drums that the Band uses in concert and state and ceremonial occasions."

In addition to the membership, Cheesic also was presented a color photo of the band, containing an inscription by Lt. Col. Loboda, which reads: "On the occasion of his induction as an honorary member of the United States Army Band with an abiding admiration for his workmanship and artistry."

JACK O'BRIAN'S

Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Peter Falk told us in Rome the only role he's read that might lure him to the Broadway stage was in Herb Gardner's "The Goodbye People," that of a septuagenarian delicatessen owner; Red Buttons also wanted it but Milton Berle got it.

Fashion designer created ladies costumes for both conventions. The Humphrey for President duds start at $12 while the Repub styles start at $38. There's the thread of a prosperity message in there somewhere. . . . Mia Farrow's cover hereby is blown; when here, she registers as Barbara Deutch, her secretary's name. . . . Bill Holden had to rush home to the Sherry Netherland to pack for his meeting with Bing Crosby and Kathy at Holden's Safari Club, Kenya. . . . French mental hospitals pony up Cognac to relax patients. . . . Napoleon?

Jill Mitchell, daughter of Dick Nixon's campaign manager, and Vietnam hero (Bronze Star) Edwin Copied Reed told their Maud Chez Elle chums they'll wed Nov. 16. . . . Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon celebrated their 38th in London. . . . Britishers love them because they were starring in a BBC radio series when the Blitz hit London and they just stayed on when most Americans scurried home to safety. . . . Pop-rockers called "The Mob" dress like early Chicago gangsters; they'll play Las Vegas in Oct., which would seem to be Coals to Newcastle. . . . The recent Nevada joints caught with phony dice and cards were just the ones exposed in the act. . . . Wonder why suckers think mobsters won't cheat just because they don't have to; they don't have to rob and murder and blackmail, either.

Singers love the Copacabana — it has 38 speakers around the room, tended by acoustical engineers. . . . Jose Ferrer has the nightclub fever bad — he'd rather play a floor show than King Lear.

Lickee Tree owner Irene Kuo is moving into Spindletop restaurant owner Van Rapaport's apartment; he's moving out first, of course. . . . Lance Alworth of the San Diego Chargers is a late blooming McCarthyophile. . . . Winston Churchill Jr. signed in at Miami Beach's Eden Rock to cover the confusion.

Broadway actor Joe Sirola has been offered $500,000 for his teeth-stain-remover firm; Bud Westmore of the Hollywood film family's his partner. . . . So Joe doesn't have to worry if his current musical "Golden Rainbow" is less than half-selling-out. . . . Rita Hayworth doesn't get the Liz Taylor-size fees of yore but she spends it just as fast. . . . Claudette Colbert's in Europe to soften the memory of her husband Joel Pressman's death but her friends say she's a very sad beauty.

Once we asked George Raft

(thinking he'd say Betty Grable or one of his other old gal pals) his idea of the most beautiful movie star he'd ever seen; George shrugged. "No contest — Irene Dunne." . . . Injured by falling scenery, Kaye Stevens is playing "Annie Get Your Gun" in Kansas City in a wheelchair. . . . Dick Cavett told Glynis Johns he's always been fascinated by her voice: "For years I've wanted to marry your throat!" he said on his television morningcast.

Four-year-old Lou Rawls Jr., son of the hottest young soul singer, was set for three network shows — without his dad (Joey Bishop, Phyllis Diller, Jerry Lewis). . . . Ingrid Bergman told an interviewer, "All my marriages were happy. Only the divorces weren't." . . . We can't believe the New York public libraries regularly discard out-of-date editions and soiled or worn-out volumes — but a library expert tells us a city law prohibits them from being given to people or organizations; book burning?

The past office pile-up of mail is solved: there are 31,000 U.S.A. press agents. . . . Arthur Treacher at the "Personality" TV show: "I can't make any statement about hippies. I've only smelled them a little."

Ronald Reagan's (and Jane Wyman's) daughter Maureen waxed an album "Guess Who's Happy At Home" just when Paw's checking 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. for a conservative rental.

Picture doesn't resemble book

'Molly' author sulks over movie

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Has author Arthur H. Lewis put a hex on a big, big Hollywood movie which may or may not be based on his book?

Lewis, a former Philadelphia newspaperman, wrote "The Lament for the Molly Maguires" and sold the picture rights to the book to Paramount Pictures, now turning the subject into an $8 million movie.

Most of this mammoth bankroll was spent in northeastern Pennsylvania's hard coal fields —around Eckley, Jim Thorpe, Hazleton, Wilkes-Barre. That's where the fabled "Mollies" thrived—and died.

The story deals with murder and violence in the anthracite fields when immigrant Irish organized a secret society to fight the economic bondage of 19th century mine and railroad owners.

Paramount calls its picture "The Molly Maguires" and producer-writer Walter Bernstein and director Martin Ritt insist their story "has absolutely no resemblance" to Lewis' book.

Lewis, of course, mopes a bit today in his air-conditioned Philadelphia home because the movie producers—who just finished hard work on the hot sets built in the real coal mine towns—aren't going to use a line from his book, and thus won't give him any screen credit.

Lewis admits he laughs all the way to the bank (with that undisclosed five-figure sum he was paid for his story) but his ego remains slightly bent. And kidding friends don't help.

When the "Molly" cast of several hundreds assembled this spring at Eckley, headed by Sean Connery (of James Bond fame) and Richard Harris, book-writer Lewis—"a coal cracker myself, born and raised in Mahanoy City"—was all set to host a big party, until he found out he wasn't being included.

"I thought maybe I'd slipped my lid," said Lewis.

He's now working on a new book, based on the mysterious goings and doings of the Amish and others of the Plain People sects in and around Lancaster County, Pa.

"During my research I became friendly with an extremely powerful warlock who hangs out his shingle a few miles south of Franklin and Marshall College," relates Lewis.

"I had to see this guy to clarify a few points in the new book, and I blurted out the story about the 'Molly Maguires' movie. My pow-wower friend went into a deep trance, and when he awoke with a strange smile on his face, he told me he'd put a hex on everybody connected with the picture."

Now, it is true that the movie-making on location ran behind schedule, the accidents sidelined some of the cast, that expensive retakes were necessary because the 20th century intruded into the 1870s.

"Did I go too far and should I call it off?" asks Lewis.

150,000th disabled employe honored

HARRISBURG — A Norristown man who has been a deaf mute from birth was honored by Gov. Raymond P. Shafer in Harrisburg as the 150,000th handicapped person to find a job through the services of the State Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation.

He is Richard M. Beam, 33, of 507 Norris Street, Norristown, who is employed by the Container Corporation of America at one of its plants in the Manayunk section of Philadelphia.

Gov. Shafer presented Mr. Beam with a plaque made by trainees in the Pennsylvania Rehabilitation Center in Johnstown. The handicapped man spent about five months in 1967 at the Center, which is operated by the Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation.

Secretary of Labor and Industry John K. Tabor, who is Chairman of the State Board of Vocational Rehabilitation, said that Mr. Beam is married and the father of two children. A native of Du Bois, he was registered with the Rosemont District Office of the Bureau when he got a job at the container plant in Philadelphia.

Hospital's mental health clinic staffed 24-hours

By FRED WALTER
Pocono Record Reporter

(Editor's note: This is the fifth article in a series on the new mental health clinic in the General Hospital of Monroe County.)

EAST STROUDSBURG — Psychiatric emergency services could be readily available to emotionally disturbed persons and to their families as well as to prevent an emotional crisis from becoming a chronic disability and to insure continuity of care for such patients, an emergency service, operating 24 hours — a day, seven days-a-week is required.

This type of service will become an essential part of the complete mental health center of the General Hospital of Monroe County when it becomes operational in September. It will consist of the 24-hour walk-in service; 24-hour telephone service; home visits and a service for suicide prevention.

The hospital has always provided a 24-hour service for all kinds of emergencies and will be expanded to include emergency psychiatric care with professional staff and personnel of the hospital's Emergency section and the anticipated Mental Health Unit.

Additional emergency services will be made available at the part-time clinics planned for location in Pike and Carbon counties.

The hospital has a switchboard operating around the clock and a direct telephone line will be established to the Mental Health Center itself to enable the anxious patients to talk with a professional staff member any hour of the day or night.

Two beds in the mental health unit will be reserved for emergency psychiatric patients for observation pending determination of appropriate need and referral. Persons of all ages from Carbon, Monroe and Pike counties will be served and service made available without discrimination, ability or inability of the person to pay for needed service.

Referrals will be made directly to the emergency unit by other community agencies such as the Court, Child Welfare and Rehabilitation Services; from the two General Hospitals in Carbon County for persons residing in the service area of the Mental Health Center and from the administrator of the Tri-county Mental Health and Mental Retardation Program who will work closely with all referral agencies.

The anxious, the intoxicated

Trucks collide on Rt. 611

MT. POCONO — About $7,500 in damages, but no injuries, were reported Monday at 9:45 a.m. by Mt. Pocono Police as the result of a two-truck accident on Route 611.

Police said a tractor-trailer owned by the A. C. Berwick Transportation Co. Inc., Woodbridge, N.J., and driven by Frank E. Shafer Jr., 20, of Moscow R.D. 3, ran into the rear of a truck driven by John P. DeRossi, 55, 306 Main St., Peckville, while both were traveling north on Rt. 611.

DeRossi's vehicle, owned by James F. Brunozzi, 713 Church St., Jessup, was damaged to the extent of some $4,500 and Shafer's truck's damage was $3,000, police said.

Food poisoning claims 52 lives

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Fifty-two persons died of food poisoning and 87 others were in critical condition after a Moslem religious festival in East India's Bihar State, officials here reported Friday. Most of the victims were women and children.

It happened Thursday night in the village of Sutor Khana, 400 miles northwest of Calcutta.

Mail piling up in Canada

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada's two-week postal strike has created a mountainous backlog of mail — about 10 million letters, circulars and parcels — at post offices across the country. A post office department spokesman, who gave this estimate Thursday, said the backlog had been increased by the arrival of ships carrying mail for Canada.

or the aggressive patient will be interviewed in private in convenient interview rooms in either the regular Emergency section or in the mental health unit.

A psychiatrist in charge will be available when an emergency is presented and will be responsible for the treatment program and in determining admission following initial emergency contact.

The psychiatric nurse supervisors will assist under the supervision of the psychiatrist medical director.

Home visits will be part of the service when necessary which will be made by the social worker assigned to the case by the medical director of the unit.

To become effective in its total purpose and eventual reduction of cases, the emergency service requires the cooperation of all physicians, local government, especially the police department and other social service community agencies.

Home evaluation of a disturbed person by a mental health professional may be more valuable and successful than taking the person to jail, unless protective escort is found necessary. In such cases, the police and the professional will work as a team.

Immediate treatment for persons with emotional disturbances is the needed concept to supersede the usually accepted idea that mental illness is a condition that develops over a long period of time and once developed is a lifetime affliction.

Standard treatment in the past included measures only to restrain suicidal or aggressive people from carrying out their intended acts. But experience of professionals has shown that most of the patients can respond to help and will improve or recover.

The entire hospital and its mental health center will dedicate itself to make more care readily available to emotionally disturbed persons and their families as a means of preventing emergencies.

The follow-up, after-care program or continuity of care concept will be the most essential part of the emergency unit to prevent recurrence of a treated mental illness and an eventual recurring emergency.

There will be an immediate necessity for a liaison of cooperation between the mental health center and the hospital itself, between local physicians and all other community resources, including its citizens to support the efforts of the mental health unit in its total function — comprehensive community mental health services within easy reach of patients who require treatment.

This type of liaison service will be provided under a separate program, namely — "consultation and education," a network of communications for professional and public relations to be discussed in a following article.

LBJ signs housing law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law Thursday what he called "the most far-sighted, the most comprehensive, the most massive housing program in all American history."

He said the bill, which is designed to pave the way toward elimination of substandard housing in the country during the next 10 years, "can be the Magna Carta to liberate our cities."

Teenagers to conduct campaign for St. Jude

STROUDSBURG — Teenagers throughout Monroe County are currently making plans to raise funds for work in eradicating childhood disease.

Within the next six weeks, they will go from door-to-door, collecting money for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tennessee.

Teenage chairman of the March is Miss Mary Louise Dalessio of East Stroudsburg, Stanley Zuba of East Stroudsburg R. D. 2, is Monroe County chairman.

Zuba said the teenagers have been holding meetings weekly, planning for the march. He said that although nationally the drive is scheduled for Sept. 15, the local group may hold its campaign earlier.

Free of treatment He stressed that at St. Jude's, all children are treated free of charge, and that 90 cents out of each dollar spent there is raised by teenagers.

Open four years ago, St. Jude's is unique in that for the first time, pediatricians and biological scientists combine their talents and efforts in a concerted campaign to conquer the medical problems of children.

Czechs told to suppress its liberals

MOSCOW (AP) — Taking a hard line, the Soviet Communist leadership made clear Tuesday it now expects Czechoslovakia to suppress "all anti-Socialist forces."

The ruling Politburo said in a communique it "highly appreciates" general appeals at the East bloc meeting Saturday in Bratislava for "irreconcilable struggle... against all anti-Socialist forces."

The Politburo made no mention of another statement by the Bratislava meeting recognizing the right of national parties to develop communism according to their special needs.

Law moves quick

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Highway speeders found during a recent crackdown on traffic violations that the law also can move quickly. A temporary police court set up in a wayside garden handled a case a minute.

Blue Cross membership sets record

WILKES - BARRE — Blue Cross of Northeastern Pennsylvania, through marked increase in enrollment during the first six months of this year, has reached an all-time high of 455,000 members, representing 46 per cent of the population of the 13-county area served by the association, according to Ralph S. Smith, President.

In a report to his Board of Directors, Smith said that Blue Shield membership served by the Association now totals over 400,000. He said approximately 30 per cent of eligible groups now include Major Medical coverage.

Smith said that although the Association had experienced a net loss of over $600,000 during the six-month period, the effect of rate adjustments, which were approved by the Insurance Department effective April 1, are expected to offset this loss during the balance of the year.

The Blue Cross president said part of the Plan's six-month net loss was due to a 16 per cent increase in cost per hospital day — from an average of $36.15 in the same period in 1967 to $41.88 for the same period in 1968. Stating this another way, he said this meant that Blue Cross paid $9.2 million for membership hospitalization during the first six months of 1968 as opposed to $7.7 million for the same period last year. He pointed out, however, that the Plan's operating expenses remained constant at 5.2 per cent of income received.

Search finds lost boys

TOBYHANNA — Two small boys wandered for four hours lost in the wilds of Tobyhanna State Park before being found by searchers Monday.

According to Mt. Pocono State Police, Thomas Kozerski, 4, and Ronald Logan, 6, were reported lost at 6 p.m. and were located about 10 p.m.

Joining in the search besides police were fire departments from Coolbaugh Township, Mt. Pocono Borough, and Gouldsboro, plus game wardens.

Cabot to talk to businessmen

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn. will hold a dinner meeting today at 6 p.m. at the House of Ming.

The guest speaker will be Michael Cabot of Cabot Associates, Stroudsburg's planning consultants.

P.M. teacher completes course

CARBONDALE, ILL. — Robert A. Demarest, Tannersville, a teacher at the Pocono Mountain Junior-Senior High School, Swiftwater, will finish eight weeks of study on Friday at Southern Illinois University.

Demarest is attending the University's first summer institute in Earth Science for Secondary School Teachers. The Institute is supported by a $45,000 National Science Foundation grant.

The aim of the Institute is to give the teachers an understanding of the principles and processes of earth science by using an investigative approach that includes classroom experience with high school students in an earth science class and a unified presentation of the subject in a way closely related to the eight-year findings of a nationally developed Earth Science Curriculum Project.

Teachers admitted to the course had at least three years of experience which included teaching at least one science course. Those attending the Institute are scheduled to teach earth science as a subject in their schools during the coming year.

Man charged with larceny

STROUDSBURG — Rudolph Michael Gush, 19, 6 N. Ninth St., Stroudsburg, was committed to Monroe County Jail Saturday charged with larceny.

Gush, who was arrested by Thomas J. Caruella, security guard at Glenwood Hotel in Delaware Water Gap, had bail set at $2,000 by Justice of the Peace Jean Davis of Delaware Water Gap.

According to the complaint, Gush allegedly stole about $150 worth of miscellaneous articles from parked cars, including blankets and a portable radio. Gush will have a preliminary hearing at Mrs. Davis' Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

$38,000 property transfer filed

STROUDSBURG — A $38,000 property transaction was recorded in the Monroe County Courthouse.

According to a deed filed in the Register and Recorder's office Philip and Patricia Malozi, Stroudsburg, purchased the property from Wilhelm and Margaret Nebel, Stroud Township. The property is located in Stroudsburg.

Area Elks at meetings

SAYRE — Five local men and their wives attended the first in a series of quarterly meetings to be held by the BPO Elks of the Northeast District at Sayre on Sunday, August 4.

The local Elks at the meeting were Philip Farber, Jr., Delaware Water Gap, John J. Baldwin, Stroudsburg, Sam Everitt, Stroudsburg, and Clifford P. Fanseen, Stroudsburg.

All 14 lodges of the Northeast District were represented. The towns were Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, East Stroudsburg, Northampton, Lehighton, Hazleton, Pittston, Honesdale, Freeland, Lansford, Easton, Bangor, Towanda and Sayre.

Nicholas P. Chacona, mayor of Sayre, a past exalted ruler, past district deputy and president of the Pennsylvania State Elks Association, was the honored Elk of the celebration in commemorating the 100th year of Elkdom.

The Elks major project, "The Cerebral Palsy Home Service," was outlined in a demonstration under the supervision of trained nurses.

we care

what does A&P stand for?

(Besides The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., Inc.)

Fairness, honesty, dependability and quality. Our founder established these business guides for A&P over 100 years ago.

It is from this basic foundation that so many of our current-day policies have grown:

Our Raincheck policy, for example, which assures you that you will never miss out on an advertised item.

Our policy of packaging meats, that guarantees that the side you can't see is equal to or better than the side you can see.

Our complete and unconditional guarantee of anything you buy at A&P, no matter who makes it.

Our dedication to quality in the production of our own brands. Quality standards so high that we guarantee any product bearing the A&P Seal is equal to or better than the nationally famous brands.

You can probably sum it up in one word, "CARE." We care about you. When you think about it... shouldn't A&P be your store?

Your Horoscope

By Francis Drake

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Even though your day may be crowded and you are eager for accomplishment, don't overlook "little" details through haste. Seemingly minor factors could be extremely important to the overall picture of your success.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Comparison in performances should spur you on—not lessen zeal. Do not take criticism "to heart." Viewed calmly and objectively, it can prove helpful, informative and a spur to higher accomplishment.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — A day of great inspiration! Your innate perspicacity and knack for pleasing, applied in the right areas, could bring many unexpected benefits.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Lunar influences stimulate your hearty, spirited efforts. A day in which to do your best! If your path is blocked, see another route. Don't let others discourage you.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Some misunderstandings presaged in unexpected areas. Counteract with poise, tact and a sincere desire to clear the air. Stress level-headedness, serenity, congeniality.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Do not be misled by surface appearances. Look deep for true values. A good day in which to capitalize on your innate artistic ability, which ties in so well with your practicality.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Don't overtax yourself or incur undue risks now. No matter how busy, MAKE some time for reflection and contemplation. A new appraisal of your status quo is needed.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — You may be inclined to drive yourself too hard now, with resultant strain and anxiety. Your experience should tell you that this not only undermines health but lessens overall efficiency. Try to eliminate non-essentials from your schedule so that you may pace yourself at an easier gait.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — You usually bounce back quickly from disappointments. May it be so now, when you're liable to encounter a few "rough spots." Avoid bickering, pettiness, fretting. They don't reflect the REAL YOU.

December 23 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Your capacity for recognizing the plights and misfortunes of others can be excellently deployed in several areas now. Do all in your power to assuage distress, inspire others to superior performance.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Note Capricorn. Your planetary influences suggest a similar program. Don't become overly sentimental or emotional, however.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Neptune, in favorable position, promises new opportunities, advantages. You can hold your own with anyone now, if you put your best foot forward, and keep striving. Ahead!

YOU BORN TODAY are quick to judge and act; are generous, vivacious, strong, determined and proud (sometimes inordinately so). You grasp situations quickly and can take just the right steps to capture prize offerings while others are only dreaming of them. The true Leoite has a dynamic personality and is a born leader. In the field of salesmanship, he is "tops," and it is said that he (or she) can "sell anything" with a recipe of one-fourth knowledge and three-fourths charm. The ability to inspire respect in others is another one of your outstanding traits. Birthdate of: Connie Stevens, singer.

Your tax problems

Q. Over the past few years, I have bought stock of a company on a single share basis through a brokerage house. This firm retains the shares and sends me a monthly status report. If I instruct my broker to sell a portion of my stock, how will I know which shares he has sold relative to the date I purchased the stock?

A. If you direct your broker to sell specific shares of stock, held by him, you will have made adequate identification of such stock if you: (1) specify to him in writing the sequence you desire the stocks to be sold; (2) identify the shares sold by purchase date or cost, or both; and (3) receive a written confirmation of the specification within a reasonable time. Stock identified in this manner is the stock sold, even though the stock certificates from a different lot are delivered to the transferee.

President given yearly checkup

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, finished with one series of medical tests, heads back to Brooke Army Medical Center on Wednesday or Thursday to finish his check-up.

White House press secretary George Christian said there would be no report on what was described as Johnson's routine yearly physical until all tests have been completed.

The President must fast before undergoing the remaining ones, Christian said.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

Sealed bids for construction of Tunkhannock Dam in Tunkhannock State Park, Townships of North Abington and Benton, County of Luzerne, Pennsylvania, Contract No. R33-1-101, will be received in the office of the Secretary of the Department of Forests and Waters, Room 409A, Education Building, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, until 1:00 p.m., E.D.S.T., 1:00 p.m., E.S.T., September 19, 1968, at which time said bids will be publicly opened and read.

The work consists essentially of construction of a rockfill dam with topped core and filters. Maximum height of dam will be 69 feet; approximate length 350 feet. Spillway will be cut into rock and will be constructed on existing rock. Foundation will be grouted. Cast-in-place concrete conduit will be 72 inches in width and height, 22 feet in length, with gated inlet and energy dissipating outlet.

The principal items of work are:

Reservoir clearing 200 acres
Excavation, earth 30,000 C. Y.
Excavation, rock 40,000 C. Y.
Paving, concrete 4,000 C. Y.
Embankment, earth 25,000 C. Y.
Embankment, rock 10,000 C. Y.
Concrete reinforcement 120,000 lbs.
Drilling and grouting 350 L. F.
Foundation grouting 10,000 bags.
Leak test 72 inches x 22 feet
Sluiceway, 72 inches x 22 feet
Metalwork, miscellaneous 20,000 lbs.

Each bidder must submit an evidence record and bid bond. The Commonwealth reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive any informality, defects, or irregularities in the bids.

Contract documents may be examined during office hours at the office of the Division of Forestry, Department of Forests and Waters, Room 409A, Education Building, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Contract documents will be furnished upon payment of Twenty-five Dollars and Twenty-five Cents ($25.25). This fee includes sales tax, by check made payable to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for each set, upon application to the above office.

Sealed bids must be received and the payment will NOT be returned.
